BONUS ON "SWEEP" TICKET

SCOTTISH DISPUTE SETTLED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

An action of James Paton against William Murray, both residing in Dumfries, and the Irish Hospitals' Trustees was listed for hearing.

When the case was called,

Mr. McGuckin, K.C., who, with Mr. Murnaghan (instructed by Mr. John Kieran), appeared for the plaintiff, said that, having conferred with Mr. Campbell, K.C., he was able to announce a settlement. The plaintiff said that he sold the ticket to Mr. Love, while the defendant said that he was the seller, and the person entitled to receive the bonus, and that his name was on the counterfoil of the ticket. The parties, who lived near each other, had now settled their differences, and agreed that out of the £1,000 the sum of £125 should be paid to the plaintiff in full settlement of all his claims for costs and otherwise, and that the balance, after providing for the costs incurred by the Hospitals' Trustees, should be paid out to Mr. Murray.

Mr. Charles S. Campbell, K.C., with Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Budd (instructed by Mr. R. J. Farrell) appeared for Mr. Murray.

The action was brought for a declaration that the plaintiff was the seller of a ticket that was purchased by Mr. M. A. Love, of Wigtown, and drew the horse, Golden Miller, in the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstake on the Grand National of 1934, and for an order that the plaintiff should be paid the sum of £1,000, the amount of the bonus payable to the seller of the ticket, the horse, Golden Miller, having taken first place in the race.

By consent Mr. Justice Johnston made an order in the terms agreed upon.

Mr. Nolan Whelan (instructed by Mr. P. H. O'Reilly) appeared for the Hospitals' Trustees.

CO. ROSCOMMON WILL SUIT

AN ESTATE OF £11,000

INVESTMENT FIGURES IN CODE

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

A SETTLEMENT was announced in a suit concerning the will of Laurence J. Mitchell, late of Cloonfinlough, Strokestown, the hearing of which had been opened.

The plaintiffs, John D. O'Farrell, merchant, Strokestown, and Peter Murray, auctioneer, Farn, Strokestown, sought, as executors, to establish the last will of the testator, dated 30th August, 1935, and the defendant, Mrs. Frances Thompson, Harcourt street, Dublin, a cousin of the testator, opposed the will of 1935 on the usual statutory grounds, and propounded a will dated 20th February, 1900.

Mr. Leonard, K.C.; Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C.; and Mr. R. S. Hogan (instructed by Mr. P. F. McCormack) appeared for the plaintiffs. Mr. Lavery, K.C.; Mr. T. P. McCarthy, K.C.; and Mr. P. J. Nugent (instructed by Mr. P. J. Neilan) for the defendant. Mr. F. Sweeney (instructed by Mr. J. S. O'Connor) for the Attorney-General.

Opening the case for the plaintiffs, Mr. Leonard said that the testator, who died on 3rd September last, aged about 82, left assets value about £11,000, including about £9,000 in cash and securities, and a farm left to him by a brother. At the time of his death he was living on the farm, but earlier in life he had been a commercial traveller and had lived in England.

FOR CHARITIES

By his will of 1935 the testator left his property to be divided among charitable institutions selected by his executors, each institution to receive at least £200. He directed that two charitable institutions in England should benefit, and that in their selection the executors should be guided by the testator's friend, Mr. Shellard. He also bequeathed £200 each to Mr. Shellard, who was an English stockbroker, and to testator's friend, the Very Rev. Canon McKenna, of London. By the will of 1900 he left about £170 to charities, and bequeathed a sum of £300 and the residue to the defendant, Mrs. Thompson.

The testator, said Mr. Leonard, kept for many years a diary, in which he recorded his doings daily up to about ten days before his death, and it showed that he was of unusual business capacity. His secretiveness was shown by the diary, because in entries relating to his investments he did not use figures, but a code. Up to the time of his death he had been actively engaged in dealing with his investments, and one of his interests in life was in seeing that the income tax authorities did not get too much from him. He was an intensely religious man, and at the same time was very careful about money matters. In making the bequest to Mr. Shellard he referred to him as "his dear friend who had assisted him in the purchase of stocks and shares." He had been very successful as an investor.

After some evidence had been given on behalf of the plaintiffs the hearing was adjourned with a view to settlement.

Subsequently Mr. Lavery announced that an agreement had been come to, and Dr. Mark Hanley, Strokestown, gave evidence that in August, 1935, the testator was capable of disposing of his property.

THE SETTLEMENT

Mr. Lavery mentioned that the terms of the settlement were that out of the estate a sum of £1,000 would be placed at the absolute disposal of Mrs Thompson, to be dealt with by her in accordance with what she believed would be the testator's wishes. A sum of £5,000 out of the estate would be devoted to charities selected and nominated by Mrs Thompson which she believed the testator wished to benefit. All the legacies under the will would be paid. Counsel said that Mrs. Thompson did not wish to benefit from the sum of £1,000 referred to.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that he would accept the settlement and would admit the will to probate, subject to the conditions mentioned. Mrs. Thompson, he said, deserved great credit for the attitude she had taken in the matter. She had opposed the will of 1935, not for her own gain, but in order to carry out certain wishes of the testator that were known to her. She did not desire anything for herself, which was a very rare occurrence in any testamentary suit.

The jury, by direction, found in favour of the will of 1935, which was admitted to probate on the terms stated.

Mr. Justice Hanna allowed all the parties their costs.

£400 FOR INJURED HERD

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

An action for damages for personal injuries arising out of a motor car accident was heard, in which the plaintiff was Thomas Carroll, Oughterard, Straffan, County Kildare, a herd, and the defendant Mr. Henry Herbert Beasley, Eyrefield House, Newbridge, County Kildare. The plaintiff alleged that the defendant's motor car collided with a bicycle he was riding outside Naas on the 1st July of last year, throwing him to the ground and inflicting very serious injuries. The defence was a denial of negligence.

The jury found for the plaintiff, and assessed damages at £400, and judgment was entered accordingly, with costs.

Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C., and Mr. R. Hogan (instructed by Messrs. Brown and McCann) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Lavery, K.C., Mr. Dockrell, K.C., and Mr. Murnane (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning) for the defendant.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT

£600 FOR WORKER'S FAMILY

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

Mrs Bridget Brennan, Newcomen Court, North Strand, was, by consent, awarded £600 compensation against Elijah J. Raybould, trading as the City of Dublin Engineering Works, Beaver street, Dublin, for the loss of her husband, Thomas Brennan.

It was stated that, while working for the Dock Milling Company, Brennan fell off the scaffold, and sustained a fracture of the skull, from which he died on the same day.

The respondent lodged £600 in Court to meet the claim. The judge approved of the offer, and made an order apportioning the amount amongst the family.

Mr. W. O'B. Fitzgerald (instructed by Mr. James Fagan) appeared for the applicant; Messrs. Hoey and Denning, solicitors, appeared for the respondent.

MAYO MAN INJURED

John Flaherty, labourer, Lucan street, Castlebar, Co. Mayo, applied for compensation from Messrs. Thompson, Byrne and Company, haulage contractors, Shaw street, Dublin, for personal injuries sustained in an accident which took place on June 26th, 1935, at the New Hospital, Castlebar.

The respondents denied liability to pay compensation under the Act, on the ground that the applicant was not, directly or indirectly, employed by them, and that the applicant was not a workman to whom the Act applied.

Dr. Moran stated that the applicant had a fracture of the hip bone, and that it had not yet united.

The judge made an order giving the applicant 30s. a week from the date of the accident until further order.

Mr. O'Sullivan (instructed by Mr. M. Moran) appeared for the applicant.

Mr. F. Sherry (instructed by Mr. K. Burke) appeared for the respondents.

Decisions Reversed—Judge Wyse Power, at Castlebar Circuit Court, reversed the decision of the District Court Justice sentencing James Scahill, Pheasanthill, to a month in jail for driving a motor car while drunk. He also reversed the decision of the same Justice, sentencing John Conway (17), Hollymount, to a month in jail for riding a push bicycle in a manner dangerous to the public.

GOODS STOLEN IN TRANSIT

A REMARKABLE COLLECTION

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT AND A JURY.)

In the last ten years there had been thousands of pounds' worth of goods stolen in the course of transit from the North Wall, and the insurance companies were hard hit in paying compensation. The police had not been notified, and little recoveries had been made. It was suggested that the goods were taken by carriers or people who had access to the sheds.

The statement was made by Inspector Sheppard in giving evidence of character in the case in which Hubert Geraghty, a carrier, residing at Cook street, was charged with the theft of various articles. The accused man was arraigned on twenty-two counts of having, in October, November and December last, stolen a bale of blue serge cloth, value £10 2s. 6d.; three dolls, value 15s. 6d. each; three bags of sugar, value £2 8s. 11d.; 35 bentwood chairs, value £7 10s.; a carton of dolls; a flower stand, value £1 1s.; a pitchfork, value 2s. 6d.; 144 spinning tops, value £4 4s.; a case of tradesmen's tools, value £5; eight chisels and four hammers, value £1 5s. 7d., and a case of toys, value £10 1s. 6d.

Christina Maher, with an address at Wall's lane, Francis street, was charged with receiving the bales of serge.

Mr. R. McLoughlin (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted. Geraghty was not legally represented.

Mr. Connolly, solicitor (Mr. Liam Trant McCarthy), appeared for Maher.

Thomas McMahon said that he knew Geraghty for three years. He saw a bale of cloth in Geraghty's house, and one one occasion he saw Geraghty and Maher bargaining for a bale of cloth. Eventually Maher agreed to give Geraghty £2 for the cloth.

Guard Doran stated that Geraghty made a statement in which he stated that he could not explain how the cloth got into his stable.

Geraghty, from the dock, said that he was very drunk on the night on which the bale of cloth was sold. He had met some women in a hall, and woke up in the next morning with 30s. in his possession.

Mrs. Maher denied the charges against her, stating that she had not even known Geraghty.

Geraghty was found "guilty" on the charges of stealing and receiving a bale of serge and of stealing three bags of sugar. Christina Maher was acquitted and was discharged. Geraghty was put back.

CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

DUN LAOGHAIRE MAN ROBBED

WIFE ACCUSED OF STEALING £56

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

MAURA CUDDY, Waterstown, Naas, Co. Kildare, who appeared in the dock with a baby in her arms, was charged with stealing £56 from her husband, Henry Cuddy, Sandycove road, Dun Laoghaire, on August 1st, 1935.

Mr. P. Lynch, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted, and Mr. Herman Good, LL.B., solicitor, defended.

Henry Cuddy said that he kept a grocery and confectionery lock-up shop at Sandycove road. In June his wife left him. On the August bank holiday he locked the shop about 3 o'clock and went for a walk. When he returned he discovered that cash to the extent of about £56 was missing. His wife previously had a key to the shop.

He had "a particular argument" with her about three weeks before she left; it was the culmination of a series of arguments about himself and the children.

Mr. Good—She left of her own free will? It was not on account of this other woman? —No. She gave up a good home?—I gave her two alternatives.

Charles Graydon said that on the afternoon of the August bank holiday he saw the accused woman and another woman go to the porch of Cuddy's shop. Mrs. Cuddy returned after some time.

SHOP OPEN

Miss Eileen Burke said that on August 1st she went to Cuddy's shop and found it open, but there was no one to attend to customers. She left and later saw Mr. Cuddy returning to the shop.

Mrs. Cuddy, the accused woman, gave evidence that she was married in September, 1931, and there were three children of the marriage. On the August bank holiday last year she was in Ballina, and she denied that she took the money mentioned in the charge. When she was leaving her husband she left a second key of the shop at her residence at Albert road, Dun Laoghaire. She was obliged to part from her husband owing to his conduct and cruelty. In reply to Mr. Lynch, she said that her brother came to Sandycove on June 8th, 1935, to "get me out of the clutches of this tyrant—my husband." She knew nothing about the loss of the money until she was told by the detectives.

Judge Davitt—What were you doing in Ballina on this August bank holiday?—I stayed in the house resting myself.

Sean Mears, Ballina, a brother of the accused woman, stated that Mrs. Cuddy was at his house on the August bank holiday.

In reply to Mr. Lynch, witness said that before he had gone into the grocery business on his own behalf he had worked for some time with Mr. Cuddy. He had retired from business, and later lived at Rathmines road.

To Judge Davitt—When I went to see Mr. Cuddy in June of last year he refused to make any provision for her.

Further evidence that the accused woman had been in Ballina on the August bank holiday of last year was given by Mr. Liam Kennedy, Castlepollard, brother-in-law, and Mrs. Kennedy, sister-in-law.

The accused woman was found "not guilty," and was discharged.

CIVIC HOUSES DECORATION

The Housing Committee of Glasgow Corporation decided, by thirteen votes to five, not to proceed with the proposal to decorate one apartment in each Corporation house each year. The proposal, which was put forward by members of the I.L.P. group, was that it be remitted to the Properties Committee to arrange for the decorations. In a report submitted by the City Chamberlain, the Director of Housing's estimate that the average cost of decorating one room would be £1 15s. was quoted. Taking 42,500 as the approximate number of houses requiring treatment, the annual charge would be about £75,000. If the proposal were adopted the charge against the Repairs Fund would exceed 15 per cent., which would mean either an increased contribution or the depletion of the existing Repairs Fund.

Connolly (architect) submitted lay-out plans for 94 houses, 58 of which are to be constructed along the roadway adjacent to the world-famed ruins. Mr. Connolly expressed the opinion that the new houses should not take any more from the view of the Rock than the existing houses do. The plans were approved and ordered to be sent to the Department.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

An Irishman Honoured : Lord Longford's Players : Sales Talk : A Rare Book

A "Companion of Honour"

In the Birthday Honours List issued a few days ago there occurs a name once well known in Dublin—that of Professor William George Stewart Adams. For many years Professor Adams was chief of the Statistical and Intelligence Branch of the old Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, now merged in the general Statistical Office under Mr. Stanley Lyon. Professor Adams was the second chief of the branch, the first having been the late William P. Coyne, whose memory is perpetuated by a scholarship in the National University. Some twenty years ago Dr. Adams left Dublin to take the Gladstone Chair of Politics at Oxford, where he is now Warden of All Souls' College. While in Dublin Dr. Adams did not by any means confine himself to professional and academic duties, he took a prominent part in the social life of the city. At Oxford he has followed this practice, and he is chairman of the National Council for Social Service, and also chairman of the National Federation of Young Farmers' Clubs. He maintains some slight contact with Ireland through his membership of the governing body of the Horace Plunkett Foundation, which studies the co-operative movement in all lands.

Lord Longford's Players

It would seem as if Lord Longford is settling down to a career of successful management in London, and that he may be the means of reviving the Elizabethan nomenclature for theatrical companies. It will not be at all surprising to see in the near future the band of players which he has gathered about him for his London ventures referred to as "Lord Longford's Men." It will be remembered that the company which he assembled to play at the Gate Theatre while the regular company was absent in Egypt went to London to present his own "Armlet of Jade," which had been staged at the Gate Theatre for the Dublin Drama League. As this little Chinese tale did not suit the taste of London playgoers, the company then presented Eugene O'Neill's "Ah! Wilderness" in association with Mr. Sydney Carroll at the Ambassadors' Theatre. This production has met with great approval from critics and audiences, and now it is proposed to present Mr. Denis Johnston's well-known Gate Theatre play, "A Bride for the Unicorn," at another theatre. It is said that several more players will cross from Dublin for this production, and, if it should be so, the available acting talent in Dublin will be greatly depleted. Fortunately, all Dublin's theatres are now closed, and they will return.

Irishwoman's Play

For the first time a play that has not achieved critical or popular applause in either London or New York is included in a volume of Messrs. Gollancz's "Famous Plays" series. The play is "Katie Roche," by Miss Teresa Deevy, which was first produced at the Abbey Theatre in March last. It is the first definitely Irish play to be included in this series, which has now reached eleven volumes and a total of sixty-six plays, although it is not the first work of an Irish author to be so honoured. The departure from precedent is so marked that the inclusion of Miss Deevy's play receives special attention in a publisher's note. "We felt," says the publishers, "that the band of regular purchasers of our 'Famous Plays' series would welcome the inclusion of this play, even though it cannot yet be called famous." From this it might be inferred that "fame" is conferred by production in London or New York, but the inclusion of the play in this series surely demonstrates that fame may occasionally be achieved in other places, and that Dublin is one of those places. Those who have followed Miss Teresa Deevy's comparatively short career as a playwright will readily agree with the publishers, and will be glad to hear that her undoubted ability is being recognised outside Ireland.

A Cheap Sale

What does constitute a cheap sale? "Buy now; sale on," in a shop window recently decided me that I could no longer do without a strong pair of boots. "What discount do I get during the sale?" I asked when I had been fitted; and what was my disgust when I discovered my choice was not included in the bargain lots! Later I had the experience repeated in another direction. A window of linen collars of alluring shapes and more alluring prices tempted me inside once more. I was soon disillusionised. When the assistant heard my size in collars he told me, with the combined courtesy and firmness appropriate to the occasion, that my neck did not fit into any of their cheaper collars. I refrained from purchasing this time, and left with the conviction that, as far as the mere man is concerned, cheap sales are something of a misfit.

An Old Guide Book

After reading a recent paragraph, wherein I mentioned the pleasing social qualities of the eighteenth-century gentry in Ireland, a reader showed me Hibernia Curiosa, a rare book printed under the sign of "Swift's Head," in Dame street, and dated, from Lucas's coffee-house, in 1764. The little volume, written in the style of a letter from the author, J. Bush, to a friend, gives an entertaining account of a journey through Ireland, together with some incisive observations on the manners and dispositions of its inhabitants. In a long note to the reader Bush disclaims any friendliness of publishers—"Damn the whole fraternity of 'em, Sir, from Pall Mall to Paternoster!"—and "garret-riding tour-writers, whose longest journey would be from 'Homer's Head' to the nearest chop-house." These renunciations, and a strong warning to the printer against in any way methodising his work, were by way of asserting the writer's literary independence. His method of handling the subject-matter is explained in forthright language that makes the modern authors' safeguarding prefaces look very feeble stuff, indeed:

"If any class of gentlemen shall think themselves too freely or too severely dealt with, I take this opportunity of declaring that to none, but those who deserve it, has he the least desire, or intention, that any degree of censure should derive; and, in perfect confidence in this, likewise, that none but those, whose insufferable consciousness shall point the application, will suggest to themselves any offence. 'Who claims the picture knows his right.'"

An Intemperate Dublin

The law of libel was not very stringent when Bush wrote, but there was a stern code of honour—"that is, said he, if there is any honour in running a man through the body for an inadvertence which he may be obliged to defend at the hazard of his life, when not more than one in fifty Irish duels is fought on fair terms." Bush found the "people of fortune" in Dublin genteel and sociable, but he objected to their presumed merit of hospitality. To have his boots and horse locked up for forty-eight hours, and then to be sent away drunk, was not the meaning in Pope's line: "Welcome the coming, speed the going friend." And the killing of twenty sheep to furnish a dish of kidneys to a visitor—in the midst of appalling poverty—was but an inhospitable gesture, when only by drinking like an Irishman was one allowed to eat as an Englishman. One favourable custom in the city was the use of very small drinking glasses; yet, thus handicapped, the "middling" drinker could consume his four bottles of claret without being in the least disordered, and a man who could not carry his gallon coolly was looked upon as nothing. Get him over his sixth bottle, said Bush, and you may drink him to eternity. The old inns and hostelries figure largely in our civic history, but in all Dublin this English visitor found only one wherein a gentleman who had any regard for his reputation and safety would venture to lodge. Discerning people sought private lodgings, preferably in Essex street.

Dublin's Presumed Superiority

While admitting that thousands in the lowliest class of Dubliner spoke English better than those of equal rank in England, Bush allowed no claim to similar superiority by the "highest sort of people," who, in their linguistical accomplishments and social deportments, were "almost very Londoners." This, he said, was too well known in Ireland. But in the "middling class of gentry" and people in trade there was a ridiculous sense of Hibernian importance which included a presumption to improve upon their betters. "How the devil they can come to such a superiority" was far beyond his comprehension. Throughout the provinces the inhabitants were accounted to be generous, although those of the lowest class were reduced to a degree of ferocity and untowardness. All were by nature too sanguine and irascible; but, when thoroughly free from the maddening stimulus of whiskey, they were civil and frank. Give them importance—and to refute this was an offence unpardonable—and a little of your cash, and the traveller of discernment might do anything with them, especially if he had good nature enough to ride into the dirt himself rather than drive another into it. I do not know anything about Bush, but he was a frequenter of Lucas's coffee-house—the meeting-place for gentlemen completely skilled in affairs of honour—so he must have been a very brave man. I hope he got away with it.

WEDGWOOD AND DUBLIN

CLARKE TAKES OVER AGENCY

HIS DISAGREEMENT WITH WEDGWOOD

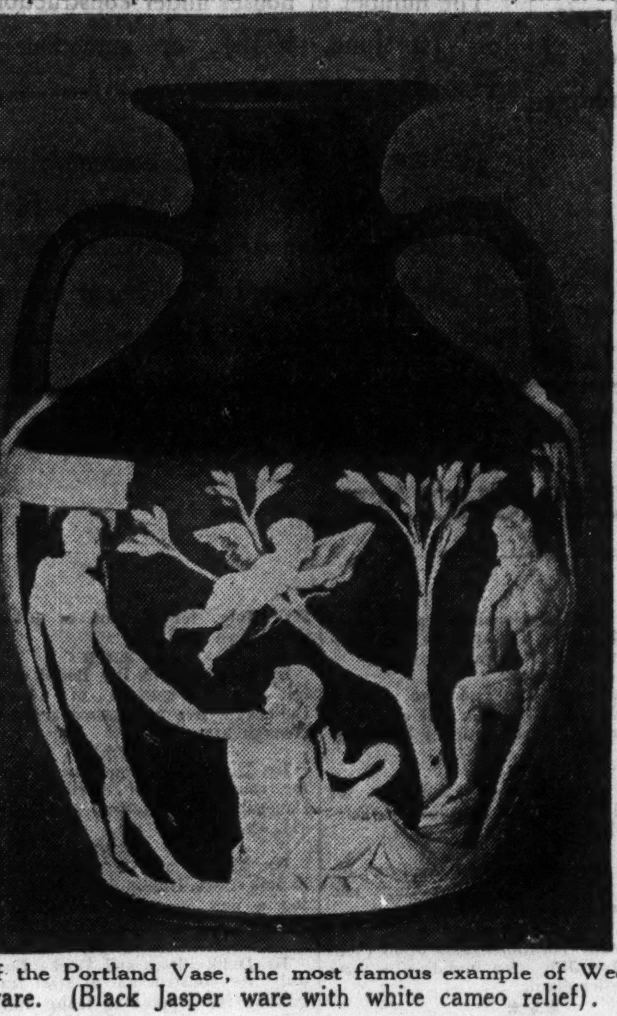
SLUMP IN SALE OF WARE IN DUBLIN

II.

(By CONSTANTIA MAXWELL.)

ALTHOUGH Sir Charles Bingham gave Wedgwood an enthusiastic account of the popularity of his wares in Ireland when he visited the works at Etruria in the summer of 1770, the famous potter did not open a warehouse in Dublin immediately.

There were many difficulties to contend with. The passage over the Irish sea in the sailing ships of the period involved a good deal of risk for his delicate wares, and there were Custom House regulations to be complied with. Suitable showrooms had to be found, and an efficient agent.



A copy of the Portland Vase, the most famous example of Wedgwood ware. (Black Jasper ware with white cameo relief).

In February, 1772, however, we learn from a letter written by Wedgwood to his partner Bentley, a Mr. Brock had been sent from the London rooms to take charge in Dublin, where premises had been hired in College Green belonging to "an honest Lancashire man." But on the 22nd January, 1777, we find Mr. Brock writing to Etruria as follows:—"On Monday my landlord gave me notice to quit the House as they are going to build a Post Office on the scite. . . . I was in hopes it would not have taken place as they had been so long determining, however it is now fixed. I shall find it very difficult to meet with another," he adds, "with equal convenience and situation, tho' even at much greater Rent." The Dublin agent evidently failed to find other premises that would suit, for he wrote to his employer on the 11th March that he was packing up the stock, and did not want him to send over any more goods, "not even those ordered."

ESAU CLARKE

That Wedgwood ware was selling well in Dublin, however, is proved by the fact that the manufacturer received a letter on the 23rd July of the same year from one Esau Clarke offering to take over the agency:

> Sir,
> Seeing an advertisement of your Intention of Declining keeping a warehouse in Dublin I asked Mr. Brock who Informed me that you Did not Intend to send Goods to Dublin any more on your own Account. If so, I would be Glad to Commence a Dealing with you. I have been in that business Some Years and am Situated in one of the best streets of Dublin and well known to the People of Quality. I am Sure that I can sell your Ware to as Good Advantage as any other person in Ireland can, having a Good House and handsome Rooms to show them in. I Should have wrote to you before this time but thought to have Come over my Self to see Some friends and Relations in Buckingham Shire where I was born and to have made Staford Shire in my way comeing back, but am now obliged to Decline that thought by a Hury of business from the Army in Other branch I cary on, as I am a Stranger to you I canot expect an Answer till you Inquire Into my Character and Situation of life, if you like then to send Goods to me I would be Glad to know your Terms and Prices. . . .
> P.S. I should be Glad of your Answer as Soon as Possible for the Sumer is Far advanced and what Goods I Get from Stafordshire must have by the begining of October for that is the time that People of Quality Come to Town.

WEDGWOOD'S ANSWER

Wedgwood's answer to this letter, which was addressed from 23 Henry street, was to accept Clarke's offer. On the 3rd October, 1777, he received the following communication from him:—

> Sir,
> I recd. a letter from Mr. Brock who informs me that you are satisfied to Serve me with ware on my Engageing to sell none but of your Manufactory which I am willing to Do as I am Sure it will answer well, he also tels Me that you think from Information that my Shop would not be sufficiently large to contain an asortment of your Goods, with what I Allready have, Be well ashured my house is by no means Inferiour to the House you had for that Purpose in College Green, and if I find it necessary to Enlarge my Shop my house has 3 rooms on the first floor one behind the Other Although but one in a Shop at Present and in the space of Six Days I could lay them all in one and make as large a Shop as any in Dublin, the Midle Apartments I Set furnished frequently at 2 guineas a week. The present Lord Eglington when in Dublin Lodged in My House, the present Lord Inchiquin Lodged in My House for Ten Months, and Many other People of Distinction. When I can Accommodate Such People as them—you may Guess my Apartments are good, and if I find the profits to answer. I would convert My whole House to the use of trade if so much Room was wanted, but as I mean to sell your Ware only the lower Part of my House will be sufficiently large to Shew a Good Assortment of Goods. This is an Undertaking I would by no means engage in, Only I have 2 Daughters and one Son. My eldest Daughter is Grown up able to Assist and my Son is 17 years old, a Good Scholar and capable of business under the inspection of his mother and me, therefore it will not Much Interfere with my time, I have by no means laid in the Asortment of ware that I should have Done as being in Expectation of Dealin with you So that in a Short time none shall appear in my Shop but your Make, I am a person that is very timorous and exact in my Dealings. I send but a Small Order for such things as I think I shall have Sale for. If not convenient to send them all at once I would be Glad of Some of the Dishes Plates Turreens and sauce turreens as Soon as possibly you can Send them, this is our Parliament winter and the latter End of this Month all the quality will be in Dublin and the will all Enquire for your ware I therefore hope you will Send them of as Soon as Possible and it will much Oblige Sir your most Obedt. Humble Servt.

SLUMP IN WEDGWOOD

The part that Wedgwood had played in opposing Pitt's plan for Free Trade for Ireland in 1785-86 led to a slump in the sale of his wares in Dublin, and we are not surprised to find Mr. Clarke deciding to break his connection with the firm and getting rid of his agency. On the 29th August 1786 he took up his pen and wrote as follows:—

> I am very Sorry to be obliged to write a letter on this Subject, I have weighted long to See if their was aney prospect of Continuing the Sale of your ware but find many of the people of Quality that formerly dealt with me will buy no more from me on account of your oposing the Irish propositions so much, and many others will not buy from me because I canot Sell as Cheap as other Houses So by that means I canot sell aney unless I would sell for half first Cost therefore I am determined to Quit the business for by loss at Sea bad debts and the loss I must be at by Stock on hand I may Justly afirm that I have Gave a long atendance to a Business for nothing but am a great looser by it. I hope Mr. Wedgwood as this is a singular case you will properly Cosider it as the failour of the Sale of your goods here wass not accasioned by aney misconduct of mine I hope you will take Such articles back as I may Chuse to Send or be at the loss of their being sold under Value, and you may depend as an honest man I will doe every act of justice in Settling my account with you and am Sir your moste obedt. Humble Servt. . .

Wedgwood replied to Mr. Esau Clarke as follows:—

> As you have sold the whole of your stock to Mr. Williams, and I make no doubt that some of the payments at least are become due, I hope it will be convenient for you to make me a remittance. You know the large sum there still remains behind, and which I believe few others besides myself would have suffered to remain so long in the situation it is. I hope you will not use me worse for the confidence I have placed in you, and I need not tell you what is necessary to convince me of this. I shall expect the favour of a line by return, and am, etc.. . . .

DISAGREEMENT

According to his own account, Clarke did not sell his stock to the Mr. Williams mentioned in Wedgwood's letter, but to one Roach, who sold it to Williams at a handsome profit. He wrote again to Wedgwood on the 14th June, 1787, as follows:—

> Sir,—
> I wrote to you the first of March and Sent my draught value £40 on Messrs. Longman and Brodreys Cheap Side London. . . . I sold to Mr. Roach as much Goods for 154 pounds as was Charged to me by the Invoices 251. He sold them again to Mr. Williams for near as much loss as I had and I realy believe Mr. Williams is sorry for his Bargin for the are still on hand I don't believe 20 pounds worth of them have been Sold Since he got them, the failour of the sale of your Goods was no Misconduct of mine but was accasioned intirely by your disobligen the publick and the hiness of your prices which will never doe here you may be well ashured I would not have given up the business if I could have made boath ends meet but the time running on and nothing doeing I found my Self growing worse daily, and I had maney misfortunes what by Losses at Sea, Bad debts, and my orders not atended to was a great hurt to me for goods was never Sent to my order but duble the Quantity of one article and none of another So that I was kept unsorted at all times, and for som years past the loss I had on Black tea pots was great for few of them Stood the Heat and was returned Crackd, and the maney Mistakes and over Charges all added to the Loss I had on Selling the unsortable Stock on hand I conclude by ashureing you it is my just opinion I am 500 pounds the worse for dealing in Earthen ware . . .

Wedgwood did not believe that Clarke's losses were as heavy as he made out, and he told him so frankly:—

> Eturia, 22nd June, 1787.
> Sir,—
> I observe what you say as to your orders not being attended to in goods not being sent you to your orders, and great quantities sent you that were not ordered. In reply to the first I acknowledge you had cause of complaint, but it was entirely owing to the demand for my goods being more than I could supply, and I can truly say that you had at least a fair share with the rest of my customers, but in respect of the latter you have no cause of complaint against me, you might not indeed be acquainted with all that your son ordered when he was here, which was certainly a great deal, and during his stay here, he was so pressing to have all the goods he could, that our people were obliged to hide them when they could as they came out of the ovens that my other friends might have some share with him.
> I observe all that you say respecting the sale of your old stock to near £100 loss, . . . to all which I would ask, Whether, when a person leaves off business it is likely they should sell an old stock to profit, and to talk of the business being hurt by my having disobliged the publick is really an idle story, for I sell as many goods to your kingdom now as I used to do . . . Indeed I wrote to a friend, upon your former letter, to enquire into this matter, & he assured me there was nothing in it. He believed, as I do, that you were strictly honest in your dealings, but your misfortunes, which he was sorry for, had another cause which I do not wish to mention to you. . . .

WEDGWOOD'S SUCCESSOR

Wedgwood died on 3rd January, 1795, and was succeeded in the business by his son, also Josiah Wedgwood, who entered into partnership with his cousin, Thomas Byerley. They decided to re-open the business in Dublin in 1807, and took a house in Upper Sackville street (No. 36). But the pottery industry had suffered, like many others, during the wars with France, and the Union had drawn many people of wealth and fashion away from Dublin. Wedgwood, therefore, decided at the end of 1810 to break his connection with Ireland and close the Sackville street rooms. The following notice was inserted in the newspapers:—

> Josiah Wedgwood respectfully informs the public that the sale of the stock of earthenware, at reduced prices for the purpose of closing the concern, continues this and every day at No. 36 Upper Sackville street. The business will be carried on as usual at Etruria, Staffordshire, and in York street, St. James, London, where the utmost attention will be paid to the orders with which he may be honoured.

The newly-married couple then left for their honeymoon, which will be spent on the Continent. The bride travelled in a grey tailormade suit, a grey hat and fox furs.

The bride wore a veil of old Limerick lace, lent by Mrs. Fraser, Donegal. Her gown was of parchment soleil satin, moulded to the figure, the skirt forming a long train. The bodice had long tight sleeves and an original collar line, softened with sprays of orange blossom. The veil was supported by a bandeau head-dress of orange blossom, and she carried a shower bouquet of deep cream roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaids—Miss Peggy Fegan and Miss Kitty Lindsay—wore picture frocks of pale turquoise blue taffeta, with very full skirts, mounted over malmaison pink taffeta. The puff sleeves were finished with strappings of pink, and the sashes were also of pink. Your Child's Health is at Stake

When it comes to choosing medicine for your child, you must be careful. Nothing but the best is good enough. A child's health is priceless and a wise mother will not dream of taking chances where that is concerned—or experimenting with 'cheap,' untried preparations.

And so when her child suffers from one of those inevitable stomach upsets she turns in complete confidence to 'Milk of Magnesia.'

Doctors the world over prescribe 'Milk of Magnesia' for children's stomach ailments and to keep the bowels regular. It is wonderfully effective yet entirely harmless even to the youngest babe. Next time your child is out of sorts, listless, has stomach-ache, colic or constipation, give 'Milk of Magnesia.' You will be delighted with the quick comfort it gives; sweetening the sour stomach and relieving the bowels.

Many mothers find 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets handy. Their pleasant mint flavour appeals greatly to children, who take them eagerly.

Always remember that there is nothing "just as good" as 'Milk of Magnesia.' Of all chemists: 1/3 and 2/6 (treble quantity). Also 'MILK OF MAGNESIA' brand TABLETS, 1/- per box and larger sizes 2/- and 3/6 for family use.

'MILK OF MAGNESIA'

'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips' preparation of Magnesia.

CORK'S GREAT SUMMER SHOW

HORSE CLASSES GOOD

FINE EXHIBIT OF CATTLE

DAIRY STOCK A NOTABLE FEATURE

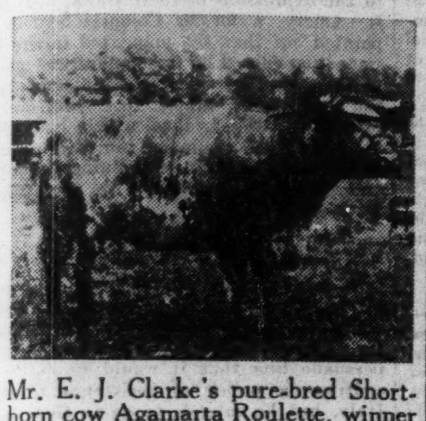
FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Wednesday.

At the Munster Agricultural Society's Show in Cork to-day there were some excellent specimens of horse flesh, hunters from the Midleton district being especially noteworthy. Among the winners in these classes competition was keen, and the judges had no easy task in selecting prize-winners. The four-year-olds were a very promising lot, and it would be surprising if they did not include a champion. Young horses likely to make hunters were also a promising lot, and should be heard of again.

Although not so well supported as might be expected, the children's classes proved very attractive. The events in the jumping enclosure were all up to a high standard, and the large crowd which attended had a really enjoyable time in the perfect weather which prevailed.

Cattle made a splendid muster, especially in the section for Shorthorns, Herd Book and otherwise. Dairy Shorthorns were a particularly useful lot, as might be expected in a province so largely devoted to dairy farming. Friesians, which are usually seen in Ireland only at Northern shows, were quite a good feature. There was also a pleasing turn-out of Kerry cattle. Aberdeen-Angus animals were less numerous than usual, although the quality could hardly be excelled. The Dublin breed champion, Mr. R. C. Williams' Blackmells of Coolcower, repeating his victory here. Herefords made a very useful display.



Mr. E. J. Clarke's pure-bred Shorthorn cow Agamarta Roulette, winner of two first prizes at Cork Show yesterday.

Competition in the sheep classes was limited, though the quality was good. Pigs, butter, poultry and garden produce were seen to good advantage, while there was an impressive show of dogs.

The entries totalled 2,341, excluding the jumping competitions, which is a figure to be proud of.

To-day the showyard was kept open until 9 p.m., and special attractions were provided for those who attended in the evening, these including mounted vaulting by an Army team and a jumping competition. Mr. W. T. Cosgrave and other Cork members of the Dail were present during the day and took a keen interest in the proceedings. Mr. Edward Bohane, Director of the Royal Dublin Society, also attended, and expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the Munster Agricultural Society was carrying on its work. He was glad to see from the trade exhibits there that industrialists realised that their success could only come through the success of agriculture. There were stands at Cork, he said, that would do credit to Ballsbridge. The greater the success of the Munster Show the better it would be for the shows of the Royal Dublin Society.

There was a big attendance throughout the day, and particularly in the evening.

Her SAFETY depends on YOUR choice

Look for the DIAMONDS before you buy tyres

THE motorist who believes that all leading tyres are alike has never compared the treads, never seen and felt the extra safety of The Diamond Tread of Goodyear G-3 All-Weather. It is the only tread that gives definite right-angled resistance to every direction of skid. Those deep-cut sharp-edged diamond blocks form a tread which is wide and flat and thick, ensuring longer non-skid mileage than you have ever known. Replace your old tyres with G-3 All-Weather—you'll never go back to any other make. Remember, G-3's cost no more than ordinary tyres.

DIAMOND CENTRE GRIP
Diamond tread blocks in the centre of the G-3 tread give Diamond Centre Grip —the most efficient non-skid action ever devised.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND

In Dail Eireann last night President de Valera stated that under the new Constitution, which would be introduced to the Dail in the autumn, the office of Governor-General would be abolished, and an elected representative of the people would be the ceremonial head of the State.—(Page 7.)

Mr. Costello, former Attorney-General, stated in Dail Eireann yesterday that, in view of the harsh attitude of the authorities, tax evasion was "almost morally justifiable" in certain cases.—(Page 8.)

The Bishop of Limerick (the Right Rev. Dr. Irwin), addressing the annual meeting of the Diocesan Synod yesterday, spoke of the attacks on the property of Protestants, and the burning of Kilmallock Church in July, 1935. He acknowledged gratefully the general condemnation of the outrages, the friendly letter of the Most Rev. Dr. Keane, and the generous action of the Government in the matter of Kilmallock Church.—(Page 7.)

A deadlock has again arisen in regard to the election of a Mayor for Sligo.—(Page 7.)

The Cork Harbour Board received yesterday the report of experts appointed to inquire into the suitability of the district as an airport for seaplanes and aeroplanes. The report states that the district is admirably suited to both projects. A conference of local bodies has been summoned to consider the report.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN

Different ideas about the use of the Straits in wartime are taken by Britain and Russia at the Dardanelles Conference.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At the Curragh, yesterday, Raeburn won the Irish Derby, My Auburn the Pollardstown Plate, Ca Ca Ce the King's Plate, Gurtnafleur the Mountjoy Plate, Grey Crusader the Maddenstown Plate, and Choni the Newbridge Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Newcastle, yesterday, Coup de Roi won the Northumberland Plate.—(Page 10.)

London Stock Markets were cheerful, with chief attention again directed to speculative South African Gold Mines.—(Page 12.)

In Lombard street loans over the half-year were in demand at 1½-2 per cent. The Bank announced the purchase of £1,588,476 in bar gold. The price of gold fell to 138s. 7½d. per ounce.—(Page 12.)

Dublin Market was again quiet. Bank Stock fell a point and Guinness units eased to 157s.—(Page 12.)

Another Shackle!

President de Valera and the late Robert Louis Stevenson have at least one thing in common: each takes the view that it is better to travel hopefully than to arrive. Mr. de Valera has been President of the Executive Council now for more than four years. During that period he has been talking almost incessantly about an Irish Republic. He has been telling the people that, if they have sufficient patience, all will be right on the night. They must trust him to lead them to their republican goal, and one fine day they will wake up to find that absolute independence has been achieved. He has been challenged on this point on many occasions. He has been reminded that, by virtue of the Statute of Westminster, the Irish Free State has every right to secede from the British Commonwealth of Nations at will, and to become an independent Republic like Paraguay or Portugal. The President, however, has been careful never to define what he means by an Irish Republic. He has continued to impress upon the people the enormous difficulties that must be surmounted before the ideal State can be established, and from time to time confronts them with some further proof of his own activities on their behalf. Through these tactics he has manœuvred himself into an exceedingly unhappy position. He now has become what has been termed a prisoner of prestige. Like Signor Mussolini, he always must be doing something, or, at least, he must persuade his supporters that he is doing something. He and his Government, so far as external affairs are concerned, live from crisis to crisis. No sooner had they come into power than they proceeded to abolish the Oath of Allegiance to the King. Then they withheld the land annuities. They did away with appeals to the Privy Council. President de Valera began to usurp the Governor-General's functions by the reception of foreign representatives accredited to the Free State; he abolished the Senate—and all these changes have been made on the pretext that they are bringing the Irish people, in the teeth of almost incredible obstacles, nearer and nearer to the Cloud-cuckoo-land of the Republic.

Some weeks have passed since the final stage was completed in the matter of the Senate's abolition, and some of the gilt has been taken from the ginger-bread by the fact that President de Valera has established a Commission to make proposals regarding the setting up of a new Second Chamber. Things apparently have been getting rather dull; for yesterday the President decided that the time had come for another victory for Ireland. He announced in Dáil Eireann last evening that the position of Governor-General was about to disappear. We have the utmost respect for the present occupant of the post. As direct representative of the King in the Free State, he has acted with complete correctness, doing precisely as he has been told to do by the Executive Council. Admittedly, his functions have been nothing more than those of a rubber stamp; but, at any rate, he has been the King's representative, and, as such, the living symbol of the Saorstát's link through the Crown with Great Britain and the other member-States of the Commonwealth. President de Valera however, in his drafting of the new Constitution, has decided that this symbol is superfluous. The fact that the Anglo-Irish Treaty of 1921 is being violated troubles him just as little as the violation of the League of Nations' Covenant troubles Signor Mussolini. A Governor-General implies a certain degree of allegiance to the Commonwealth Crown. Such allegiance, real or implied, is inconsistent, according to President de Valera, with the national dignity of the inhabitants of the Free State; therefore, it must go. The President informed the Dáil that there would be no Governor-General in the new Constitution; but, as usual, he intends to have things both ways. There will be no Governor-General; but the President realises the value of somebody who shall be "outside and above politics, to act on ceremonial occasions as head of the State." Consequently, provision will be made for a functionary who will act in this capacity. Presumably, he will not represent the King; but it is not at all impossible that his office will be constituted in such a way as to satisfy at once the letter of the Treaty and the anti-British aspirations of the Cumann na Phoblachta.

When will President de Valera abandon all this pretence about his Republic? It really convinces nobody. We do not believe that he has made a single convert from the ranks of the extreme Republicans, and he is imposing a severe test upon the patience of those citizens of the Free State who are anxious to be loyal to the Government in power, but have no use for humbug. A careful study of his recent speeches affords little or no clue to the President's real objective. He continues to talk about the Republic, but he will not declare it. During the present week he has addressed Dáil Eireann at length on the subject, displaying a confusion of thought that almost might be worthy of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald. What precisely does he want? It seems from his Dáil utterances that nothing less than a thirty-two county Republic will satisfy him, and he goes back to the visit of the Earl of Derby to Dublin some fifteen years ago to prove his consistency. We all know that the ideal Irish State will embrace the thirty-two counties. We all are anxious to see its consummation; but everybody who has the slightest intelligence knows perfectly well that it does not happen at present to be practical politics. Dublin at the moment is as remote from Belfast as Budapest is from Prague or Brussels from Berlin. Every step that President de Valera takes to bring the Republic nearer actually pushes it farther away, inasmuch as it merely hardens the determination of the North to have nothing whatever to do with the Free State. When, therefore, President de Valera speaks of Irish unity he surely must know that his policy is ruining all hopes of any kind of rapprochement between the two Irish States. His attitude towards the Governor-General will be almost the last straw. It is a direct challenge to Northern sentiment, and we can imagine nothing that could be calculated more clearly to inflame opinion against the Free State. President de Valera may talk of an all-Ireland Republic until the dawn of Tibs's Eve. So long as he continues to bait the North there will be no hope—or ought we to say fear?—of its accomplishment.

An Inadequate Reply

The Government, apparently, is barren of ideas on the subject of the National Park at Muckross. Ten days ago this newspaper called attention to the need of "opening up" the estate, and submitted that its popularity would be increased by certain obvious reforms, including the conversion of Muckross House into a youth hostel. Yesterday the Minister for Finance, in answer to a question by Mr. Frank MacDermot, threw cold water on this last proposal. No decision, he said, had been reached on the future use of Muckross House, but "it was unlikely that it would be available for the purpose suggested." Further catechised, Mr. MacEntee replied that there were many reasons for the Government's long delay in reaching a decision, and that "many alternatives" had been suggested. We should like to hear more of these "alternatives." Muckross House has been empty, save for its staff, ever since the estate became national property four years ago, and in all that time the Board of Works has done nothing with it, except to advertise it as "To Let." Has the nation any guarantee that the house will not be derelict for another four years, or that the "alternative" use upon which the Government eventually will decide will not be in flagrant defiance to the whole idea of a National Park? The secretary of An Oige, the Free State ramblers' association, revealed last week that he had asked in 1932 that the house should be entrusted to his organisation for use as a youth hostel. His request was refused. Nevertheless, if Muckross House had been converted then into a youth hostel it would have filled a most valuable place in the national life during the past four years; it would have been a place of pilgrimage for the nation's youth, bringing pleasure to its young visitors, and profit, in the form of immense advertisement, to Killarney. As matters stand, it is a liability. We recommend the Government to change its mind. There are many possible uses for Muckross House, but, as we have urged, there is only one use which is in perfect accordance with the donors' intentions and with the idea of a National Park. To let the house to a private lessee would be a glaring breach of faith, and a most unpopular act. To use it as the official residence for some State dignitary would be equally deplorable; and there are manifest reasons why it should not be converted into a hospital or a museum. As a youth hostel it will fulfil a worthy function; for it will throw open the ten thousand magnificent acres of the National Park to the people of Ireland, to whom they belong. This is not a matter on which Mr. MacEntee can afford to be casual. He holds Muckross in trust for the young people of Ireland, and he has no business to deny them their heritage.

A Southern Airport

Two years ago the local authorities in Cork met to discuss the prospects for a large airport in the neighbourhood. They appointed a committee of experts, which reported yesterday to the Cork Harbour Board that the prospects were very good, so the authorities are to meet again, and will decide what steps are to be taken. Naturally, Cork is anxious to get its share in the Transatlantic air traffic of the future, and, although its claims to be the European base are being made rather late in the day, they probably will be pressed with some energy. In particular, it was stressed at the meeting yesterday that a base at Cork would have the advantage of many hundreds of miles over Southampton or any other base so far as the route to America via the Azores is concerned—and it seems to be agreed that the Azores route will have to be used instead of the Newfoundland route during a great part of every year. There is no need, however, for Cork to consider its suggested airport merely in terms of the Transatlantic air services. The liner traffic to and from America will continue for very many years, and while it exists Cork Harbour always will get its share. A service of aeroplanes connecting with the liners should be a very sound investment for anybody who began it, and we are a little surprised that a scheme of this kind has not been attempted already. It would allow passengers from New York to disembark from their liner at Cove if they were in a particular hurry to reach their destination in England or the Continent, and they would save many hours by completing the journey by air. The question of the mails is also worth consideration, and the inner harbour is so admirably suited as a seaplane base that there should be no difficulty in beginning a service almost at once. Thus, even if Cork's claim as a terminal airport cannot be considered, its ambitions easily might be fulfilled in another way.

Trial By Sword

A book recently has been published setting forth in humorous terms certain "curiosa Americana"—"curiosa" which ranged from Miss West to the Hauptmann trial; and, in case the author of that book is seeking a second in the series, here and now we offer him Nazi Germany. There was the matter of the man who hoarded soap, and was stoned. The Franconian Nazis banished lemons and put rhubarb in its place. Berlin is organising a horse race for the Brown Riband; and only last Monday the Minister for Justice in Berlin decided definitely to legalise the duel. Such "curiosa" as these are being manufactured every day, and provide a limitless feast of fun; although we must admit that the most recent of them is not quite so funny as the others. When the Nazis take exception to an excess of soap, the outside world can split its vast sides with an easy conscience; but when Dr. Guertner, by decree, sets up a system of justice which other nations rejected as barbarous many many years ago, it is less an occasion for mirth than for a prayer of thanksgiving that one is not a German, and for another prayer in aid of those who are. The duel has been legalised because it is "in harmony with the Nazi conception of honour," and a liberal concession has been made to all who may find themselves compelled to fight for their lives. They may use either swords or pistols, unless they are officers. Officers must use only the pistol—presumably because they are more familiar with that weapon, and there is a better chance of a quick death for one, or both, of the duellists. Doubtless, by some oversight, the duel has not been made compulsory as an arbiter of wrongs; but the fact that it has been legalised is a disgrace. The edict will not affect the huge majority of the German people, but it is going to be a boon to the lawless element. Where a strong man can get what he wants by his strength, he will not pay much attention to the more unpredictable profits of a law suit.

CURRAGH RACES

IRISH DERBY DAY

The Curragh meeting yesterday drew one of the largest gatherings which have been seen there for many years, when people came from near and far to witness the race for the Irish Derby. The presence of several cross-Channel challengers lent additional interest to the event. Circling the parade ring the crowd was densely packed, while the many spectators overflowed the enclosures and stands.

Although the sunshine was not very strong at any time an overcast sky made the heat very oppressive. As the morning had broken dull and cloudy almost every woman was wearing a tailored suit, and those who were lucky enough to have donned silk dresses were to be envied. Large hats were freely worn, and these lent shade from the glare which was reflected from the plains. It was certainly a perfect day for a June Derby meeting, and in the dense throng in the members' enclosure it was difficult to distinguish personalities.

Among those present were:—The Marquess of Sligo, the Duke of St. Albans, Prince Aly Khan, the Earl of Fingall, Count and Countess McCormack, Mr. Cyril McCormack, Lord and Lady Talbot de Malahide, the Duc and Duchess de Stacpoole, Lord and Lady Hemphill, Lady Lambart, Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, Sir H. H. Hunt Walsh, the Hon. Brian and Mrs. Bourke, Colonel and Mrs. Corbally Stourton, Major and the Hon. Mrs. J. D. Barry, Major and Mrs. C. Mitchell, the Right Hon. T. K. Laidlaw, Major and Mrs. E. Shirley, the Misses Laidlaw, Mr. and Mrs. P. Burrell, Major and Mrs. Gough, Brigadier-General Hammond, Miss Tynte, Mr. F. W. Shenstone, Mr. I. J. Blake.

Captain and Mrs. Purdon, Lieutenant Colonel S. S. Hill-Dillon, Mr. S. D. Hollingsworth, Miss Hollingsworth, Mr. R. N. Hollingsworth, Mrs. J. Orr Denby, Major Durham Matthews, Major and Mrs. Wilkins, Sir C. Stafford-King-Harman, Madame O'Mahony, Mr. J. Porter Porter, Major and Mrs. Kinahan, Colonel and Mrs. H. Mansfield, Mrs. D. "CLEANING UP" IN PALESTINE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

JERUSALEM Wednesday.

British troops have been taking vigorous action to clean up the hilly district on the Jerusalem-Jaffa main line, where frequent train ambushes have occurred recently.

Two Arabs were killed and three injured when a detachment of troops surrounded and searched the Arab hillside village of Deiryabban, some sixteen miles from Jerusalem.

During the cleaning up operations in the Tulkarem area, following Sunday's battle, unused ammunition was found in three houses of a village. Military and police demolished the houses, arrested nine Arabs and detained twelve others.

A British police corporal, named MacKay, was slightly wounded in the arm last night when taking part in the defence of the Jewish colony of Sedjera, at the foot of Mount Tabor, Galilee.

COMPULSORY PURCHASE ORDER

In order to ascertain the amount of compensation demanded by several claimants in disputed cases under the Compulsory Purchase Order of property in South Lotts road and to investigate such claims, Mr George Hewson, official arbitrator to the Dublin Corporation, held a public inquiry in the City Hall yesterday.

Evidence was given as to the amount of compensation claimed and the amount the Corporation was prepared to offer.

Mr. H. H. Bonass and Mr. W. White, solicitors, represented the Corporation. Mr. T. V. O'Dell (instructed by Messrs. Martley and Barlee) represented the Pembroke estate, and also the Verschoyle estate (instructed by Messrs. Cooper and Sons).

LONDON LETTER

MR. BALDWIN'S SPEECH

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

CONSERVATIVES were not greatly satisfied with the speech made by Mr. Baldwin in the course of the debate on sanctions last night, and to-day in the Lobby members were reviewing its lack of policy and its general ineffectiveness. The implied snub to Mr. Neville Chamberlain regarding the speech made at the 1900 Club dinner a week ago was also discussed, and a number of Conservatives were regretful that Mr. Baldwin felt it desirable at such a time, as Mr. Chamberlain, sooner or later, will become leader of the Conservative Party. Many members of the party would be glad to support the policy which they think he would put forward.

The Back-benchers

Surprise has been expressed to-day because Mr Lloyd George did not reply to Sir John Simon last night in the sanctions debate, but he had a good reason for remaining silent, as also had Sir Austen Chamberlain and Mr Winston Churchill. Representations had been made to these leaders to give back-bench members an opportunity, and they readily agreed to give up their claims. Even so, only six members who are ex-Ministers had an opportunity of speaking.

Colonial Mandates

The feature of the meeting of the Central Council of the National Union of Conservative and Unionist Associations to-day was the expressed determination of the members that Britain must not surrender either to the League of Nations or to any foreign Power the territories she now holds under mandate from the League. Several of the speakers were very definite in the expression of their views, and Mr. L. Amery, a former Colonial Secretary, pointed out that the mandated territories were surrendered by Germans to the major Allies, and that Great Britain undertook the government, subject to certain undertakings to the League which had been honoured. A resolution on this matter was adopted by an overwhelming majority, and will be transmitted to the Prime Minister.

The Abyssinian Cause

As might be supposed from his past history, the Emperor of Ethiopia is not a man to be easily moved from his purpose. Mr. Eden has been doing his utmost to persuade him that it would be futile to continue a policy of resistance towards Italy, but he intends to go to Geneva to call upon the League of Nations to uphold him and his cause. The British Government does not regard this attitude with any degree of favour, and the Emperor may be called upon to submit to more definite terms regarding his stay in Great Britain than those hitherto imposed—which are that, while there, he will not take steps to continue hostilities against Italy. Any such step, however, will probably be unpopular with the public, for there is very great sympathy with the Emperor in his present unfortunate position.

Libel Laws

A number of individuals in London decided some days ago to form an association to fight for the freedom of thought are already getting to work, and one of their first objects will be to secure alterations in the law of libel. A conference of writers and authors has been held, and a committee has been appointed to work for the changes. It is pointed out that the present state of the law of libel amounts almost to a censorship. In the course of the recent conference facts were noted of publication being withheld or passages in books toned down because of a possibility that the coincidence of a name of place might lay the author and printer open to a libel action. The authors taking part in the conference included Mr. H. G. Wells, Miss Rose Macaulay, Miss Phyllis Bentley, Mr. Ellis Roberts, and Mr. C. Day Lewis.

Irish Fruit Imports

A Blue Book issued by the Imperial Economic Committee on fruit supplies in 1935 shows that the imports of raw fruits into the Irish Free State in 1935 totalled 31,807 tons, a decline of 1,743 tons in comparison with imports in 1934, and of 3,175 tons compared with 1933. The declared value of the imports was about £696,000. Imports of all fruits were smaller than in 1934, with the exception of bananas and grapefruit. Imports of oranges, amounting to 14,689 tons, showed a substantial reduction, but again accounted for nearly half of the total fruit imports. The imports of apples and pears were much smaller than in recent years. The bulk of the imports of raw fruit into the Irish Free State consists of re-exports from Great Britain and Northern Ireland. The remainder is composed chiefly of oranges, lemons, apples, pears and grapes, shipped direct from countries on the Continent of Europe.

Anti-Aircraft Recruits

The first anti-aircraft division of the London Territorials, which has an establishment of 17,000, is about 10,000 short of that strength, and efforts are to be made to stimulate recruiting. With this object arrangements are to be made for training to be carried out in various residential districts of the outer suburbs, where prospective recruits reside, in order that they may be saved the journey to Central London when undergoing instruction. The fostering of local interest in this manner is likely to have beneficial results. The division has about a thousand searchlights and a hundred artillery stations at vital points in the Metropolitan area, as well as signal units for connecting stations.

Motor Insurance

The powers recently granted to the Board of Trade have proved adequate in obtaining information with regard to certain companies engaged in motor vehicle insurance, concerning which the Department had felt some doubt. It has been decided that at present there is no ground for action being taken in any of the cases. In a memorandum to the Departmental Committee on Compulsory Insurance the Board of Trade states that the careers of the five companies which went bankrupt present strikingly similar features. All indulged in reckless underwriting, and, when approaching insolvency, increased their premium income to the utmost possible extent, and undertook business which more prudent concerns refused to underwrite. The question of pedestrians taking out their own policies of personal accident insurance to cover the amount in excess of the statutory limit has been raised, and will be considered in due course.

CALLS TO THE ENGLISH BAR

Last night was Call Night at the Four Inns of Court in London. Among those called were:—

GOVERNOR-GENERAL TO GO

PRESIDENT'S ANNOUNCEMENT IN THE DAIL

"HEAD OF THE STATE" TO BE ELECTED

FULL PLAN TO BE DISCLOSED IN A FEW MONTHS

THE general plan of the proposals for the new Constitution will be placed before Dail Eireann in the autumn, Mr. de Valera told the deputies last night, and they will include the abolition of the office of the Governor-General.

He stated that he was conscious of the desirability of having someone "outside and above political parties to act on public occasions as the ceremonial head of the State." He thought it should be a more important function, however, than that of appending a signature, or officiating at a garden party or race meeting.

> "I think," said Mr. de Valera, "the person to act as the head of the State here should be directly elected by the people, and be responsible to them as the supreme guardian of their constitutional rights."

Mr. Frank MacDermot, the Independent member for Roscommon, said that it was germane in coming to a conclusion upon the question of having a representative of the Crown as the ceremonial head of the State, the President should take into very serious consideration the reaction upon the North of Ireland.

In replying, Mr. de Valera said that when the office of Governor-General was abolished, the person who would replace him would be the people's representative, elected by the people and representing nobody else.

PROPOSALS IN NEW CONSTITUTION

The PRESIDENT was moving the estimate of £1,327 for the Governor-General's establishment, when he made the announcement.

He said: "The details of this estimate are substantially the same as last year. When speaking on this vote last year I said that I thought that that would be the last time that it would be necessary to ask the Dail to make provision for the Governor-General's establishment. My expectation has not been realised.

"Pressure of other urgent parliamentary business made it impracticable to introduce, as I had hoped, during the present session the contemplated proposals for the new Constitution. The general plan of these proposals which the Government hopes to place before the Dail in the autumn includes the abolition of the office of the Governor-General.

"I may say that I am conscious of the desirability, which has more than once been expressed during discussion of this vote, of having someone outside and above political parties to act on public occasions as the ceremonial head of the State. I have, however, views as to the method of appointing such a person which differ, I think, from those of the Opposition, chiefly because I feel that if we are to have an office of this kind the person holding it should have a more important function than that of appending his signature, or officiating at a garden party or a race meeting.

ELECTED BY THE PEOPLE

"I think the person to act as the head of the State here should be directly elected by the people, and be responsible to them as the supreme guardian of their constitutional rights. I had the creation of such an office in mind in 1921, and I have often felt since that if such an office had then existed our people might have been spared the misery that followed later.

"The full proposals will be submitted to the Dail in a few months, and ample time will then be afforded for discussion. I hope that when they are brought here for discussion the members of the Opposition will consider them on their merits and with a single-minded regard to the permanent interests of the country."

In moving that the estimate be referred back for reconsideration,

Mr. F. MacDERMOT (Ind., Roscommon) said that he was pleased that the President had committed himself to the view that there should be a person who could be described as the head of the State, a person outside party politics. The President had refrained, however, from intimating to the House whether that person, after being elected by the people, would, or would not, be the representative of the Crown in this country. Perhaps the President would give them an indication of his intentions on that point when he was replying.

REACTION UPON NORTH

The most important statement made by the President during last week's debate had been, he thought, the suggestion that they could all combine in regarding as an overshadowing constitutional issue in this country the reunion of Ireland. It was germane that, in coming to a conclusion upon the question of having a representative of the Crown as the ceremonial head of the State, the President should take into very serious consideration the reaction upon the North of Ireland.

The total cost to the State under all heads of the Governor-General's office was approximately £4,000. It might seem a little ungracious to query this expenditure, especially on this occasion, when the President had told them that it would be the last time that they would be called upon to sanction expenditure under that head. The most outstanding and sensational, and, perhaps, only, activity that had been connected with the tenure of office of the Governor-General was the exchange of cablegrams between him and President Roosevelt on the subject of the death of his late Majesty King George, which the Government so assiduously concealed from public notice until he (Mr. MacDermot) elicited the information by parliamentary question.

EXTRAVAGANT OFFICE

He could not help thinking that, much as the Fianna Fail Party used to protest against the salary and expenses of the Governor-General during the last régime, what they were paying now was altogether more extravagant, because money that was being handed over to the present Governor-General had not had to be spent at all in the public service.

In saying that he was not making any reflection on Mr. Buckley himself, but he had been giving absolutely no value on account of the Government restrictions and regulations for the public money appropriate to the keeping up of his establishment. There was no reason why they should provide Mr. Buckley with a car to travel about or with allowances for various officials—chaplains, private secretaries and so forth—when, in fact, all that was required was to do a little clerical work of signing, which would be overpaid at £200 a year, and to keep out of sight.

One of two things must be happening—either Mr. Buckley was accumulating a fortune out of the money that ought to be spent for the public benefit, or the money must be going in some direction not contemplated by those who assigned the money.

AN INACTIVE LIFE

The evidence was that it could not be spent rightly, because the person who was spending the money was not allowed to do the things that would make the payments proper. The Governor-General was not receiving foreign representatives in the name of the King. The President had undertaken himself to act for the King himself on such occasions.

The Governor-General had not contributed to the carrying on of the Government of the country by any advice or suggestions drawn from ripe administrative experience. He was not performing any function of political appeasement between political parties, such as the head of the State was, on occasion, expected to perform; he was not providing in his establishment a rallying point for culture, he was not bringing people together and providing an opportunity for the greater appreciation of each other, or of different sections of the community. A great deal could be done to bring together the old ascendancy party and those not of that class, to bring together the new intellectuals and the old conservatives, and to help in the welding of all the people into one.

WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN

Mr. MINCH (U.I., Kildare) said that when Mr. Buckley was appointed Governor-General the people of Kildare regarded it as an honour to the county, but they now regarded it as a rather empty honour. The President had said that the Estimate was substantially the same as last year, but he wondered if the Governor-General was substantially the same as last year.

Where was the Governor-General? If an ex-Service man wanted to get a pension or an allowance he would have to have a certificate signed that he was alive and producible, but that was not so with the Governor-General. Nobody knew where he was.

He hoped that the President would elaborate his views on the question of the selection of the Governor-General—how were the candidates to be put forward, or was there to be only one candidate?

He thought that Mr. Buckley should have been present at the funeral of the late King. He did not know why he was not present, because, after all, he was the King's representative here. He was sorry to say that in the elections which were taking place in Dublin the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who had attended the funeral, had been the subject of attack in that direction. If the Governor-General had been there that attack might not have been made on the Lord Mayor.

HOPELESS OUTLOOK

Mr. MULCAHY (U.I., Dublin, N.) said that he would like a little more information as to what power the President thought should reside in the head of the State as the supreme guardian of the people's constitutional rights. Did the President think he should have power to step in and say: "Stop the economic war"? Did he think it had anything to do with the people's constitutional rights that a situation should exist in the country created by the Government's policy that had resulted in the price of cattle falling from £18 to £8, £9 or £10? Was the question of the Governor-General's position one of those things in dispute between the Government here and the Government of Great Britain?

The position in the country to-day was that there was no hope extended to them by the President or the Government that the economic damage that was being done was to be settled until a certain number of political questions between themselves and the British Government could be settled.

Attention had been drawn during the past few days to the fact that there were views in both Irish and French newspapers that in 1932 they were within measurable distance of settling some of these questions, and that the political difficulties were drawn across the issue. Was the position of the Governor-General discussed in the conversations that went on at that time?

CURIOUS POSITION

Mr. DILLON (U.I., Donegal) said that the present Government were in the Commonwealth of Nations and out of it; at war with England and anxious to form

"A SOVIET LAKE"

BRITAIN IN OPPOSITION

CLASH OF IDEAS AT MONTREUX

DARDANELLES IN WAR-TIME

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MONTREUX, Wednesday.

BRITAIN and the Soviet are in opposition at the Dardanelles Conference. Britain, supported by Japan, is advocating "two-way" traffic for warships passing through the Straits. She is prepared to accept limitations only if they are general, and make no exceptions.

The U.S.S.R. is anxious that the Black Sea States shall be allowed to send as much as they like into the Mediterranean, but that the other Powers shall be allowed to send only a limited tonnage from the Mediterranean into the Black Sea, and on special conditions.

M. Litvinoff said he thought the riparian Black Sea States should have free conditions of passage, while non-riparian squadrons would be authorised within the five-mile limits agreed on only if making visits of courtesy or carrying out the obligations of the League. This would have the effect of making the Black Sea almost a Soviet lake.

He emphasised the necessity for his Government to be able to send warships from one port to another—i.e., from the Black Sea to the Baltic or any other part of the U.S.S.R.

He also proposed that Article 7—providing that, in the event of war, Turkey being neutral, warships and auxiliary vessels should be allowed to pass the Straits subject to normal conditions—should be amended to prevent any belligerent vessels entering the Black Sea, except in cases where they are carrying out obligations of assistance resulting from the Covenant, or from an agreement concluded within the framework of the Covenant.

It is pointed out that the phrase "agreement concluded within the framework of the Covenant" covers the Franco-Soviet pact, and thus allows for the entry of French warships into the Black Sea to assist the U.S.S.R., or Soviet warships into the Mediterranean to help France.

Rumania realises that the more supreme the Soviet's power is in the Black Sea, the more completely will her own coast be at the Soviet's mercy. Bulgaria is in the same position.

TWO KILLED IN MONASTERY

BROTHER AND WORKMAN HURLED TO DEATH

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
ROSCREA, Wednesday.

Brother Columbus James Maher, a member of the Cistercian Order at the Monastery, Roscrea, and John Ryan, a workman at the monastery and a native of Shinrone, were killed to-day at the monastery.

The cable of a cage in which they were ascending snapped at the new bell tower, and hurled both occupants to their death from a height of fifty feet.

The cage in which the men were being drawn up contained a quantity of stones for the builders, who were working at about a height of sixty feet, and Father John, who was hearing confessions in the chapel adjoining the tower, heard the crash and ran to the scene, to find both men on the ground, Brother Columbus unconscious. He administered the last rites of the Church, and medical aid was summoned immediately. It was found that Brother Columbus suffered from compound fracture of both legs, fracture of the arm and shock. He died shortly afterwards.

John Ryan, who died two hours later, suffered from compound fracture to the elbow and both ankles, and internal injuries.

Brother Columbus, who was aged 67, was a native of Leugh, Thurles. He was responsible during his forty years in the Order for the erection of the infirmary and the noviciate and many other additions to the monastery.

Ryan was aged 36 years, married, and leaves a wife and child. He was a well-known racing cyclist in his youth.

Doctors Heenan and Wallace, Roscrea, rendered medical aid to both men, and were on the scene of the accident shortly after the occurrence.

An inquest will be held to-morrow by Dr. Maher, Coroner, Ferbane.

REFORM OF THE LEAGUE

MR. BALDWIN OPPOSED TO REFERENDUM

Mr. J. P. Maclay (Liberal), in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Prime Minister whether, before proceeding with further plans for reorganising the League of Nations, he would consider the advisability of holding a national referendum of all persons of voting age in order to ascertain approximately what proportion of Britain's population was willing to go to war in support of any other nation, if, and when, called upon to do so under a system of collective security?

Mr. Baldwin—No, sir.

Mr. Maclay then asked whether the Government had the slightest idea as to what proportion of the people was willing to make sacrifices for some unknown country, and did the Prime Minister not think that it would strengthen the hands of the Government, before discussing the basis of collective security, to know what approximately was the feeling of the country? Further, did he not agree that during an election it was almost impossible to get an opinion on such matters in view of the party prejudice that came into play?

Mr. Baldwin said that he appreciated the point, but he was not so sure that they would get the true opinion of the country in this way.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd (Conservative) asked whether they would not be likely to get the true feeling if they attached to an affirmative answer the legal obligation to join the territorial army? (Laughter.)

Mr. Geoffrey Mander (Liberal) asked was the Prime Minister aware that the only military sanctions the people of this country, as a whole, would willingly participate in were those of the League of Nations — Ministerialists, the British Empire—and anything else would be resisted by force. (Hear, hear and "Oh.")

There was no reply.

TROUBLES IN BELFAST

M.P.s ASK FOR INQUIRY

"SECRET" DEPUTATION TO PREMIER

A MEETING of about 180 members of Parliament, drawn from all parties, decided by a substantial majority, at the House of Commons last night, to call upon the Government to set up an inquiry into the riots which occurred in Belfast last summer, telegraphs the Press Association Lobby Correspondent. A deputation was appointed to interview the Prime Minister on the subject.

In taking this decision the meeting was chiefly influenced by a desire to prevent a further outbreak of trouble in Belfast on July 12th next, the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

The meeting was lively at times, sharp differences of opinion arising among members. Questions were raised concerning the conduct of the authorities in last year's riots, the treatment of Roman Catholics, and the use of British troops.

The meeting was summoned by the following thirteen M.P.'s, "for the purpose of hearing statements in connection with the position of British subjects in Northern Ireland": Sir John Shute, Sir Nicholas Grattan-Doyle and Mr. A. Denville (Conservatives); Mr. Kingsley Griffith, Mr. Dingle Foot and Sir Hugh Seely (Liberals); Mr. Neil MacLean, Mr. George Hardie, Mr. W. Leonard and Mr. D. Logan (Labour); and Mr. J. Maxton, Mr. Campbell Stephen and Mr. G. Buchanan (I.L.P.).

None of the Ulster members of the House of Commons was present at the meeting.

A SPEECH BY MR. KIDD

Mr. J. R. Clynes presided, and speeches were delivered by the Rev. A. H. Ryan (Professor, Queen's University, Belfast); Mr. T. J. Campbell, K.C., member of the Northern Parliament; Mr. J. Campbell, Secretary, Belfast Trades and Labour Council; Mr. S. Geddis, Transport Workers, Belfast; and Mr. Ronald Kidd, Secretary of the National Council for Civil Liberties.

Questions were put and a general discussion followed.

The following resolution, it was officially announced, was carried by "a substantial majority":—

"That this meeting recognises the necessity for a full and intensive inquiry into the Belfast riots of 1935, and calls upon His Majesty's Government to take the necessary steps for that purpose. In the meantime it appoints a deputation to call upon the Prime Minister for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the Government will grant immediate facilities to proceed with the inquiry."

It was stated after the meeting that it had been decided not to disclose the names of the deputation which was appointed.

The Free State Oil Refinery

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Wednesday.

The London and Thames Haven Oil Wharves, Ltd., whose chairman and joint managing director, Mr. Thomas C. J. Burgess, is to be technical adviser to the two companies which are to be formed in connection with the manufacture of petrol in the Free State, was formed in 1898 with a capital of £45,000. Its oil storage tanks have frontages on to the Thames, Regent's Canal and the River Lea. Their capacity, 1,100,000 tons, is the largest in the world. There are two petrol refineries and one crude oil refinery.

The company does not deal in the properties it handles. Its income is derived solely from the storage, blending and refining of petroleum for large and small oil importers and interest on investments. It does not as a trader buy and sell oil.

Mr. Arthur T. Beasley, London, a director of Cork Harbour Wharves, Ltd., of Haulbowline, whose equipment includes a refinery and storage tanks for 16,450 tons of oil, and whose name has been mentioned in connection with the new development, said to me to-day:—

"All I know is what I read in your paper this morning. I presume that when erected the refinery will be in or about Dublin."

THE GIRL PAT

STATEMENT BY MR. ORMSBY-GORE

Mr. Ormsby-Gore (Secretary of State for the Colonies), replying to Mr. H. Day (Labour), made the following statement with regard to the motor trawler Girl Pat, in the House of Commons yesterday:—

According to the report which I received from the Governor of British Guiana, the facts are as follow:—On the evening of June 18 a vessel, believed to be the Girl Pat, anchored within the three-mile limit of the colony. A police launch was sent to inquire into the vessel's identity, but it was refused permission to go alongside, and threats were made to sink the police launch if any endeavour was made to board the vessel.

On the Governor's specific instructions police and Customs officials returned on June 19 on the Pomeroon, and were resisted with similar threats. The vessel made off and was chased by the Pomeroon for some twelve miles from shore, when she surrendered, having run out of fuel. The vessel, which proved on examination to be the Girl Pat, came quietly to port. A warrant for the arrest of the captain and the detention of the vessel was issued at the request of Lloyd's agents in Georgetown, but was subsequently withdrawn on instructions from Lloyd's. I have no information that the officers on board the Pomeroon fired on, or at, the Girl Pat. I am advised that any question of assisting the crew is a matter for the local shipping master, under the regulations under the Merchant Shipping Act.

Captain Harold Balfour (Conservative)—How is it that Lloyd's seem to have the power to have warrants issued to detain people, and then withdrawn at their own request? How do they get that power?

Mr. Ormsby-Gore—I am not familiar with the details of the Merchant Shipping Act and the rights of owners or insurers over vessels in particular circumstances. The arrest was obviously made because, in the first instance, the crew refused to allow the police on board the vessel to ascertain the facts. It was withdrawn because they did eventually come quietly into port. Any further proceedings are hardly a matter for me.

MINING STRIKE OVER

A National Congress of Miners held yesterday in Brussels decided that work shall be resumed in the mines to-morrow.

CORK AS AIR PORT

Favourable View of Experts

SEAPLANE BASE AND AERODROME SITES

Public Bodies to be Summoned

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Wednesday.

The experts' report on their survey with regard to the establishment of a seaplane base and aerodrome in Cork harbour was laid before Cork Harbour Board to-day.

It stresses Cork's suitability for both projects, and discusses in detail alternative sites for both.

The conference of local public bodies which originated the idea two years ago is to be summoned again without loss of time to deal with the matter.

Mr. J. C. Rohan presided at the Harbour Board meeting to-day, when the experts' report on their survey was circulated, and Mr. Fitzgerald explained that this report from the consultants had been only just received by the sub-committee appointed by the conference held in 1934 between Cork County Council, Cork Harbour Board, Cork Corporation, and Cove Urban Council. The sub-committee had also put together a great deal of data and presented it to President de Valera.

The report stressed the favourable position of the Free State on the shipping routes. For the Transatlantic air lines of the future the experts favoured the use of seaplanes as against land aircraft, and stated that a good seaplane base may be of even more ultimate importance to the city, which had facilities for such, than a good aerodrome.

TRANSATLANTIC SERVICES

Discussing Cork's position in relation to Transatlantic services, the report pointed out that none of the suggested termini for Transatlantic air services on the west coast were normally of great importance from a shipping point of view. It was obviously of great advantage to have the Transatlantic terminal at a port already a port of call for Transatlantic sea traffic of the highest class, with a refuelling base, if necessary, further west.

It was plainly to the benefit of air services, says the report, that traffic should not be forced into unaccustomed channels. In fact, traffic cannot be forced into such channels by the comparatively small influence at the moment of air transportation. The report mentions the likelihood of the Azores route being used for part of the year, and this would give Cove an advantage of many miles over Southampton and most other proposed harbours.

The conclusion reached is that Cork has as good a future as any city in these islands for air traffic, provided technical considerations permitted the construction of a seaplane base and land aerodrome. The report stressed the fact that easy air connections would greatly encourage tourist traffic.

SEAPLANE BASE

Dealing next with Cork's suitability as a seaplane base, the report commented on the perfect landing area in the lower harbour, the ample length of run, and the sheltered water. As regards shore facilities, these were discussed in detail. A number of sites were visited, and two, in particular—Site 1 and Site 2—approved, with a strong preference for the former. Its location was not given in the report, it having been agreed not to disclose it at present. Site 1, the report stated, was equipped with a building suitable for the reception of seaplanes and machines and with full equipment for electrical power, as well as a number of premises which could be rapidly fitted with machinery. The position was well sheltered and in every way suitable. The great advantage of this site, stated the report, is that it can be used for seaplane servicing in the very briefest period. Figuratively speaking, it is ready for use to-day. Its proximity to the railway station was also mentioned.

A LAND AERODROME

Next the report dealt with a land aerodrome, and remarked that in this brief preliminary survey the experts would confine themselves to two areas—Site A and Site B. The location again was withheld, but there is little difficulty in identifying Site B as that at Belvelly, which involves the reclaiming of the necessary area, while Site A is stated in the report to be four miles from Site B. The report expresses wholehearted approval of Site A, which, though a little further afield, is only twenty minutes from a railway station, and in this respect compares favourably with most aerodromes.

"We are satisfied," states the report, "that on Site A an airport can be constructed which within six months could secure a Class 'A' Certificate, and which is capable of extension to the dimensions required and beyond. We are quite satisfied that on this site Cork has an airport adequate both for present and future requirements in suitable surroundings and within easy reach of the city. We believe this to be the only site on which a practicable and entirely satisfactory aerodrome could be made at a moderate expenditure and within a reasonable period of time."

Discussing Site B, the report says it would involve damming an arm of the sea and draining some hundreds of acres. An aerodrome could scarcely be ready there in less than four years.

Mr. Gayer, general manager, said that Air-Commodore Chamier, who was one of those who drew up the report, was one of the greatest seaplane base experts in the world.

Mr. J. Fitzgerald said he and the other members of the sub-committee hoped that Cork would yet be the port destined for a Transatlantic base.

The meeting expressed approval of the report, complimented the sub-committee, and decided unanimously to call together again the conference of local public bodies to deal with the report.

"AN PHOBLACHT" SEIZED

POLICE SEARCHES IN DUBLIN

The entire issue of An Phoblacht, the organ of the Irish Republican Army, which was due to be published this week, was seized yesterday at the office at which it is printed in Longford.

Searches were made by police in premises which have been used by members of the Republican organisation in Dublin, among the places visited being the Hardwicke Hall, Hardwicke street; the offices of the Women's Prisoners' Defence League, 44 Parnell square, and the Kevin Barry Memorial Hall.

No arrests have been reported, and it is not known whether the detectives who carried out the searches seized anything in any of the places which they visited.

THE LIMERICK SYNOD

BISHOP ON LAST YEAR'S OUTRAGES

TRIBUTES TO PEOPLE AND GOVERNMENT

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Wednesday.

THE Bishop of Limerick (Right Rev. Dr. Irwin) presided at the annual meeting of the Diocesan Synod here to-day.

In the course of his presidential address the Bishop said: It will be within the memory of members of this Synod that on the night of July 20 of last year a violent and most unprovoked attack was made on the houses of Protestants in Limerick, and much damage was done to property, though happily no persons were injured. The attack was evidently premeditated and organised, and was alleged, I believe, to be a reprisal for happenings in Belfast, though it is hard to see what responsibility Protestants in Limerick had for the outbreaks of violence in the North—outbreaks by no means confined to one section of the community.

The authorities here dealt most effectively with the riot, and quelled it with admirable promptitude. We Protestants in Limerick are a law-abiding section of the community. We give no offence, and have no sympathy with acts of violence, and we have—or should have—the same rights of citizenship as others. We resented, and do resent, being made the victims of unprovoked aggression. None the less, it was a matter of much satisfaction to us that the outbreak was severely and instantly condemned by all sections of the community. The Mayor and City Manager called on me to express their regret at what had happened, and Bishop Keane wrote me a most kindly and friendly letter.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ACTION

Much more serious, however, was the burning of Kilmallock Church on the following night—a most wanton act of sacrilege. In this connection, I must mention the admirable way in which the Government met the situation, and how readily and spontaneously they came to our help. The Chief Engineer of the Board of Works was sent down from Dublin to see me, and informed me that he had instructions to meet my wishes in every way possible, so as to ensure that the people of Kilmallock should have a place of worship for the following Sunday. He suggested that the church might be temporarily restored and made available, and that such a restoration would be without prejudice to any compensation which might be afterwards awarded. I declined this offer, but accepted his proposal to provide furniture, etc., and as a result the schoolhouse at Kilmallock was tastefully and comfortably fitted up with everything necessary for the celebration of Divine Service. Later this furniture was removed to the Mount Coote Recreation Hall, which Lord Daresbury most kindly placed at the disposal of the parish, and Service has been held there ever since.

We were subsequently awarded £3,696 compensation, and this amount has been further increased by a most generous promise by Mr. David Browning, of Bruree, to contribute £1,000 in addition. It has been decided not to rebuild the old church, but to erect a new building on a site adjoining the school. The purchase of the site is almost complete, and only awaits the sanction of the Land Commission to the division of the holding of which it forms a part. The Diocesan Council has appointed as architect Mr. F. G. Hicks, of Dublin, whose work in connection with the new church of St. Thomas, Dublin, is well known. Mr. Hicks is at present engaged in the preparation of plans and specification.

It is a sad and disquieting feature of our national life that convictions, as a rule, cannot be obtained in cases in which the crimes are assumed to be of a political character. No country can prosper when its citizens are deterred by fears of secret vengeance from recording a verdict according to the evidence, and, I may add, according to their own conscience.

BOARD OF MISSIONS

The report of the Board of Missions, Dr. Irwin said, was the most stimulating report that came before them that day. It showed an increase of £40 over last year's total in the amount contributed for foreign missions. Every parish had done something—in each case, he thought, more or less according to its social ability.

ALLEGED PLANS FOR ATTACK ON EGYPT

QUESTIONS IN THE COMMONS

In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Geoffrey Mander (Liberal) asked the Foreign Secretary if he would state the nature of the plans for an Italian attack on Egypt which were found in the Italian Staff aeroplane that crashed in Egypt in August, 1935, killing the occupants and leaving the machine unburnt; what representations were made to the Italian Government on the matter, and what action was taken?

Viscount Cranborne (Parliamentary Under-Secretary Foreign Office) replied that he presumed the question referred to an accident when an Italian aircraft crashed on 9th August, 1935, with the Italian Minister of Public Works and other passengers, who were killed. The aircraft was completely destroyed, and no plans either of an Italian attack on Egypt or of any other description were found. The rest of the question, therefore, was not applicable.

Mr. Mander—Is Lord Cranborne able to say that no documents of this kind were found in any Italian aeroplanes during the summer months of last year?

Lord Cranborne—I should like notice of that question. It is not the same as the question on the paper.

Mr. Mander—I will put the question down.

MUCKROSS HOUSE

NOT AVAILABLE AS YOUTH HOSTEL

Mr. MacDERMOT (Ind., Roscommon) asked the Minister for Finance in Dail Eireann yesterday whether he would take the necessary steps to make Muckross House available as a youth hostel.

Mr. MacENTEE replied that no decision had yet been reached as to the future use of Muckross House. It was unlikely, however, that it would be available for the purpose suggested.

Mr. MacDERMOT asked what was the cause of the delay, and what alternatives were there in the mind of the Government.

The MINISTER replied that there were many causes and many alternatives.

ELECTING A MAYOR

SLIGO AGAIN IN TROUBLE

MANY ABORTIVE DIVISIONS

COUNCIL ADJOURNS TILL MONDAY

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
SLIGO, Wednesday.

SLIGO is once again experiencing trouble in selecting a Mayor for the coming twelve months. At to-day's meeting of the Corporation, which was called to discharge that duty, a deadlock arose through some members refraining from voting and refusing to leave the Council Chamber while a poll was being taken.

After several hours, during which ten divisions and a number of adjournments took place, the attempt to elect a Mayor was abandoned, and a further meeting of the Council called for next Monday.

THREE CANDIDATES

At the outset three candidates were proposed—namely, Messrs. Michael Conlon (Labour), outgoing Mayor; Michael Hughes (Fianna Fail), and Patrick O'Hara (United Ireland Party). The first division resulted as follows:—

For Conlon—Alderman Lynch, Councillors McMorrow, Kelly, Gallagher, Rooney and Keighron—6.

For O'Hara—Alderman Fallon, Alderman Depew, Alderman Williams, Councillors Mulligan, O'Connell and Finn—6.

For Hughes—Councilors Tolan, T. O'Hara, John Hughes, Flanagan and Joyce—5.

The lowest candidate dropped out, and in the next division O'Hara received eight votes and Conlon six.

Messrs. Joyce, Michael Hughes, Toland and John Hughes did not vote; and Mr. S. H. Derham, legal adviser to the Council, ruled that, as the highest candidate had not received a majority of the members present, the election was void.

Alderman Depew and other members appealed to those not voting to leave the room and permit the election to be carried out.

Councillor Joyce then left the meeting, and a new election was proceeded with.

Messrs. Conlon, O'Hara and Hughes were again proposed. The voting was:—Conlon, 6; O'Hara, 6; Hughes, 4. Again Mr. Hughes was eliminated, and the next voting was: O'Hara, 8; Conlon, 6.

Messrs. John and Michael Hughes and Tolan did not vote.

EXCHANGES

A motion at this stage to adjourn the proceedings to the following day was defeated by ten votes to eight, but a ten minutes' postponement, on the suggestion of the solicitor, was agreed to. During the interval the members remained in the room, and in groups discussed the situation.

On resuming, the same three candidates were put forward, with the same result—the deadlock being maintained by three members not voting.

Councillor Kelly remarked that a vote against his party was a blow against Labour.

Councillor M. Hughes—If it is a blow against anybody, it is against me. I received certain guarantees which have not been carried out to-day.

Councillor Kelly said that it was a fight between the Blue Shirts and Labour.

Alderman Fallon—I saw you in a blue shirt.

Councillor Kelly—I paid for it myself. I got nothing from General O'Duffy.

Three or four members at this stage joined in a heated altercation, and Councillor Gallagher, declaring that, as the representative there of General O'Duffy, he would not hear him insulted, proceeded to leave the meeting.

Councillor Kelly denied insulting General O'Duffy, who, he said, was a better Labour man than many present.

Councillor Gallagher then resumed his place.

DEADLOCK

After same further consultation among the members, the Law Adviser suggested an adjournment until three o'clock, and this course was agreed to.

On resumption the same three candidates were proposed, and when Councillor M. Hughes dropped out, having received three votes, one of his supporters, W. J. Tolan, in the next division voted for Mr. Conlon, this making the result: O'Hara, 8; Conlon, 7; but as Messrs. John and Michael Hughes declined to vote, the Chairman, after the proceedings had lasted almost half an hour, declared that there appeared no way out of the deadlock, and he adjourned the election until Monday at 12 o'clock.

A similar crux arose in Sligo Corporation last November, when, after three days' discussion and almost twenty divisions, a solution was reached through Mr. W. F. Browne, T.D., leaving the meeting.

The position of Mayor carries a salary of £150 a year.

LABOUR REFORMS IN BELGIUM

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BRUSSELS, Wednesday.

The Prime Minister, M. van Zeeland, to-day presented his ministerial declaration to Parliament, containing a number of labour and social reforms. The reforms include minimum wages, holidays with pay, and 40 hours week in unhealthy occupations. Improved conditions are also promised to the middle classes, provided the economic situation of the country remains favourable and the Budget balances. The Government will exercise control over finance houses and establish a separate body to provide credits for agriculture.

QUESTION OF TAX EVASION

EX-MINISTER'S VIEW

"ALMOST MORALLY JUSTIFIABLE"

UNFAIR TACTICS OF AUTHORITIES

Dail Eireann yesterday took up the discussion of the Finance Bill in Committee.

Mr. MULCAHY (U.I., Dublin, N.), on the section dealing with income tax, asked the Minister for Finance to explain to the House how it was that since the increase of income tax to 4s. 6d. in the pound there had been a substantial diminution in the yield per shilling. Since the present economic state of affairs came about the diminution was something like £800,000.

Mr. MacENTEE, Minister for Finance, did not reply until Mr. Mulcahy had risen for a fourth time to ask for a statement.

Mr. MINCH (U.I., Kildare) said that the Minister should act with the dignity becoming the high office he held.

Mr. MacENTEE said that prior to 1932 the custom was that the Minister reserved the right, particularly in the Finance Bill, to reply to the points made until concluding the debate. There were sound reasons for that. The time of the Dail was valuable, and should not be wasted by front bench deputies.

He had pointed out to the House in the course of his Budget statement that the present services were to be maintained at the present standard and at the present level, and that it was necessary to ask the people to contribute a certain amount in taxation for that purpose. The House, and particularly the Opposition, did not disagree with the Government in its decision to maintain these services at their present level, and they must now face the responsibility for imposing the necessary taxation.

INCOME TAX

So far as the general rate of income tax was concerned, he thought that the income taxpayers in this country had reason to congratulate themselves on the fact that these services could be provided without increasing the rates. It should also be remembered that the yield per shilling of the standard rate of income tax appeared to indicate a falling-off. What counted, however, was not the standard rate but the average actual rate upon which the taxes were paid.

It was true that the standard rate here was 4s. 6d. in the £ as compared with 3s. 6d. when the Government came into office. The falling-off in yield was due to the wide reliefs afforded to the poorer type of taxpayer, but the Government had succeeded in maintaining its services without increasing the rate.

Mr. MULCAHY—Would the Minister say that reliefs amount to £715,000?

Mr. MacENTEE—They amount to a considerable sum, and the House has already had all the information possible to give on the bill.

The section was agreed to.

At a later stage Mr. MacEntee again did not reply to Mr. Mulcahy.

NO QUORUM IN HOUSE

Professor O'SULLIVAN said that the Minister's attitude was lamentable from the point of view of the House.

Mr. MacENTEE asked if there was a motion before the House censuring the Minister, or if they were trying to discuss the amendment.

Mr. MacDERMOT left the Chamber and, after some minutes had passed witout the appearance of a quorum,

Professor O'SULLIVAN asked if the Chair would accept a motion to adjourn the House for half an hour.

The SPEAKER said that he was not prepared to do so.

Mr MORRISSEY—Would he be prepared to accept a motion to send for the President? Is the Minister aware that there are certain Standing Orders dealing with persons who try to bring the House into contempt?

Mr. MacENTEE—Such as wearing a Blue Shirt?

Mr. MORRISSEY said that the President's hair shirt would be better fitting to the Minister.

Mr. MacENTEE—That is Deputy Morrissey's contribution to the dignity of the Assembly.

Mr MORRISSEY—Recent events have not improved the Minister's temper. That is obvious.

Mr. MULCAHY asked if the House was now prepared to accept a motion to adjourn, or how long would they have to wait?

After an interval of about five minutes a quorum was announced at 4.20 p.m.

LACK OF COURTESY

Professor O'SULLIVAN said that arguments had been put up by two Deputies, and the Minister had refused to deal with these arguments.

He was proceeding to point out the importance of apprenticeship. when it was noticed that the Minister for Finance was in animated conversation with his colleague, the Minister for Industry and Commerce. Professor O'Sullivan stopped speaking and remained silent for about two minutes whilst the Ministers continued their conversation.

At last Professor O'Sullivan appealed to the Speaker, saying that the Minister for Finance should at least give the House the courtesy of listening to the debate.

The SPEAKER said that he had no power to compel the Minister to listen.

The Ministers continued their conversation for another minute. Then Mr. Lemass left the House, and Professor O'Sullivan resumed his speech. He said that if training was not apprenticeship he did not know why people paid for it for their boys and girls. He did not understand why the Minister should grant a concession to a rich man who could afford to put his son into a profession and deny the concession in the case of a boy or girl training in a trade or business necessary for their future livelihood.

MINISTER'S REPLY

Mr. MacENTEE said that he had been charged with discourtesy to the House because he had refused to deal with a matter that had been discussed last year. In this year's Budget they had given very substantial reliefs by increasing children's allowances from £50 to £60. If they acceded to the amendment it could only be done at the expense of the people who at the moment were not required to pay income tax. He knew of no worker of the labouring class who would be affected by this amendment.

The amendment was defeated.

HOUSE VALUATION

Mr. COSTELLO moved to delete from the bill that section which had been introduced last year increasing the valuation of a house to five-fourths for the purpose of income tax. He said that this section had inflicted hardship on thrifty people with smallish incomes, who had struggled to buy their own houses.

Mr. MacENTEE said that he could not accept the amendment. There had been a plea that hardship had been caused, but not a single case had been cited, and the Revenue Commissioners assured him that they had not had any case brought under their notice of any person being asked to do more than pay tax on the actual income enjoyed, taking one year with another, by the letting of property, or on the annual value enjoyed because of a person's possessions.

It was well known that houses in this country were under-valued, and it was hoped soon to bring in a measure to remove that anomaly. They were not doing any person any injustice by the section.

The amendment was defeated.

INJUSTICE TO THE TAXPAYER

PROTEST BY EX-ATTORNEY-GENERAL

In proposing an amendment to the effect that income tax payers be granted the right to re-open past transactions with the Revenue Commissioners where it appeared that a mistake had been made, and to recover overpayments,

Mr. COSTELLO said that in the present position no arrangement or agreement was binding on the Minister, who could re-open claims and transactions as far back at 1912 if he wished. The Minister could go back to the time that a person was supposed to have earned a single penny, notwithstanding the fact that a court might have affirmed previous assessments or that agreements might have been made.

"We are coming to the stage," he said, "in connection with income tax and tax generally that injustice to the taxpayer has reached such a point that it has become almost morally open to the taxpayer to take such steps as he can to evade it, and I make that statement with the full knowledge of the responsibility I have in making it. I make it in face of the fact that I never stood for tax evasion or fraud."

He did not for a moment hope that the Minister would accept the amendment, but he moved it to draw public attention to the extraordinary contrast that existed between the rights of the taxpayer and those of the Revenue Commissioners.

Mr. MacENTEE said the only person who knew all the facts about his income was the taxpayer, and if, with all the facts in his possession, he failed to claim within the specified time or within such time as would enable the real facts to be disclosed, he ought to suffer.

Professor O'SULLIVAN (U.I., Kerry) said that many business men in the country were now being compelled to put auditors into their business to examine their trade for the last fifteen years as a result of the threats of the Revenue Commissioners. These people had no idea up to the present time as to what their profits or losses were. It was idle for the Commissioners to pretend that a business man of ten years ago knew what his income was.

The amendment was defeated without a division.

APPEALS TO A JUDGE

Mr. COSTELLO (U.I., Dublin Co.) moved an amendment to secure that in every case there should be an appeal from the Special Commissioners to the Circuit Judge.

Mr. MacENTEE said that he was prepared to let the law stand as it had stood since 1853. This particular section had stood the test of time. The Special Commissioners were as independent in the exercise of their functions as any member of the Judiciary.

Mr. COSTELLO said that while the Special Commissioners were a just and an impartial tribunal, so, too, were the District Court and Circuit Courts and other Courts; but there was appeal from these Courts. The fact that there was such an appeal strengthened the confidence of the people in them.

The amendment was defeated.

CINE-VARIETY SHOWS

Mr. MacENTEE moved an amendment which, he said, granted a concession to theatres, where cine-variety shows were operated, and which would come under the 50 per cent. relief in Section 10.

It was proposed, he said, that the duty should be brought into operation on August 23rd, instead of July 1st, and a reduction of the statutory minimum for the live element in entertainment from 50 per cent. to 35 per cent., providing for greater flexibility in the arrangement of programmes.

The amendment was agreed to.

PRICE OF BEER

In support of an amendment seeking a rebate of £1 on every 32 gallons of beer or stout, as from October next, Mr. M. KEYES (Labour, Limerick) said there was a falling off in yield owing to war-time prices, which had reduced the consumption of barley by about one hundred thousand barrels a year, with consequent further loss in employment.

There could be only one ground for the rejection of the amendment, that being fear of increased drunkenness. He was convinced that would not be the case, but, on the contrary, that there would be a more careful use of beer and stout.

Mr. BENNETT (U.I., Limerick) supported the amendment, and said that cheaper drink did not mean increased drunkenness. As a total abstainer himself, he did not believe drunkenness could be cured by legislation.

Mr. MORRISSEY said that he did not think Ireland would ever revert to old conditions as regards drink. Modern conditions had brought about great changes in social life, especially in rural towns and villages, where picture-houses and facilities for travelling had changed the attitude that used to bring men to the public-house as a solace for the drabness of their lives.

Mr. V. RICE, K.C. (U.I., Dublin County), in supporting the amendment, said that figures proved that at present the Free State was the most sober country in Europe.

Progress was reported and the Dail adjourned until 3 p.m. to-day.

MOTOR CYCLE RACE AT ENNISKILLEN

LOCAL RIDER WINS

The annual road race of the Enniskillen Motor Cycle Club yesterday resulted in a win by slightly less than a minute for R. P. Farlow, of Maguiresbridge, who received twenty-four minutes' start from J. J. O'Neill, Dublin, the winner of the race in the last two years. Overtaking the limit man, to whom he was giving two minutes, Farlow took the lead on the third lap and, riding steadily through the hundred miles, he was never deprived of his position.

In the second place came Neville Todd, of Skerries, who, with eight minutes' start, was giving the winner sixteen minutes. This pair may be said to have had the race between them from the start, as there was an interval of nearly six minutes before Jerrers, of Enniskillen, finished in third place.

There were twenty-four starters, and eleven of them finished. Interest largely centred in the possibility of the scratchman, J. J. O'Neill, being secure to add a third successive win. His machine suffered from the same trouble as caused his retirement in the Leinster "Two Hundred," a failure of the oiling system, and although he was able to complete the hundred miles, finishing in seventh place, the distinction of making the fastest time of the race went to J. E. Little, of Belfast, who was just one second faster than Neville Todd.

Neither the full distance or lap records made last year were beaten. Results:—

1—R. P. Farlow (Velocette), 59.49 m.p.h.
2—N. Todd (Norton), 69.89 m.p.h.
3—S. Jeffers (Rudge), 64.87 m.p.h.
4—J. E. Little (Velocette), 69.90 m.p.h.
5—E. Pepper (Norton), 62.53 m.p.h.
6—J. Young (Rudge), 68.21 m.p.h.
7—J. J. O'Neill (Velocette), 67.88 m.p.h.
8—R. T. Hill (Levis), 57.54 m.p.h.
9—J. J. Brown (O.K. Supreme), 56.56 m.p.h.
10—W. J. L. Mavitty (B.S.A.), 49.74 m.p.h.
11—A. J. McCoy (Rudge), 55.36 m.p.h.

Fastest laps:—500 c.c.—Todd (Norton); 350 c.c.—Little (Velocette); 250 c.c.—McCoy (Rudge).

an alliance with it; in the League of Nations, but thinking of leaving it; denouncing the Public Safety Act, but admitting that it was their duty to use it. Now they had introduced another face-saving device. They were to abolish the Governor-General, and they were going to have a Governor-General.

In regard to the new proposal, was it intended to make any fundamental change in the present constitutional status, because, if that were the position, the people were entitled to know it.

The President was pursuing policies which was becoming associated with his name in the public life as bewildering and deceiving the people. The people had placed trust in him, and no one could close their eyes to the fact that some people had almost a reverence for him, and pinned their faith to what the President said, and believed what he said, even when they found it extremely difficult to understand the reasonings leading to his conclusions. Why did the President, who enjoyed such prestige, stoop to the expedient of ambiguity in this matter—for it was stooping in a man like him not to tell the people honestly and truthfully what the facts were.

PRESIDENT'S "DECEIT"

The Executive Council nominated the Governor-General, and if he were to be elected by the people it was simply the purest pieces of "codology," because the party which won the general election would nominate the person who would become Governor-General. They had much the same position in regard to the declaration of a Republic, but, realising the difficulties, why should the President, having the prestige he had, stoop to deceive? There was a cleverness in that kind of deceit, but he could get away with it, and it was extremely difficult to expose it to the minds of the people. That kind of deceit was thoroughly bad. Some day the people would come to realise it, and, having trusted so completely in the word of the President, their disillusionment would be proportionate to the amount of confidence they had in him now.

What the country wanted far more than Constitution-mongering was peace. They had not had peace for the past twenty years, and the people were saying, "How long, oh Lord, how long?" was this chopping and changing to go on, and when would the President be finished with it.

MR. DE VALERA'S REPLY

President DE VALERA, in replying, said that it was recognised that the present Governor-General had rendered great service to the nation. One-sixth of the money spent formerly on the office was now being voted for that position, and previous occupants gave no more service in relation to the State than the present Governor-General was giving. In fact, the present occupant had rendered genuine national service by his conduct, whereas those who went before him rendered the reverse.

The estimate for this service was being brought forward for the last time. One could not stop Deputy Dillon from speculating, and that deputy had not the sense to wait to see what the proposition meant.

The proposal that the Government would bring forward for the new Constitution would mean the abolition of the office of Governor-General, and he hoped it would be taken as equally unambiguous when he said, in reply to Deputy MacDermot, that the person who would occupy that office would be the people's representative, elected by the people, and representing nobody else.

TELEGRAM TO ROOSEVELT

The question had been raised about the telegram to the President of the United States, and there had been talk of it being hidden away. When they had deputies like Deputy MacDermot they might be sure that if there was anything that could cause trouble by misrepresentation of it it would be brought up.

Mr. MacDERMOT—What was the misrepresentation?

PRESIDENT DE VALERA—In the "hiding away." What grounds had the deputy for saying it was hidden away?

Mr. MacDERMOT—The ground that, unlike every other Prime Minister in the British Empire, the President did not publish that telegram until he was forced to do so by Parliamentary question.

PRESIDENT DE VALERA—"Did the President publish any of these telegrams, the same as any other Prime Minister. The deputy knows perfectly well why that, no more than any others, was not published. We did not publish any of them. What did the deputy mean by hiding away? Is not our whole policy known to the people of this country? It was quite consistent with that policy. A telegram was received from the head of a State and a courteous reply was sent. There was no secrecy about it, and that is the misrepresentation."

ELECTION PROMISES

The same attitude was adopted by Deputy Dillon in the matter. That deputy said they were deceiving the Irish people. "I doubt," said the President, "if ever there was put on paper as explicit a statement of policy as was put by me before the last two elections." He challenged anyone to point to a detail that had not been carried out by them. He had promised the people that the oath would go and that those other things would go, and he had promised the people that before bigger constitutional changes would be made they would be consulted. That was going to be the position. There was no ambiguity about their position, and there was no cause for ambiguity in the minds of the people in regard to it.

Mr. MacDERMOT said that when he said the telegram was concealed what he meant was that it would not have been published but for the question he asked about it, and he thought the President had implied that that was so.

President DE VALERA—The deputy is very clever in using his words. What is the meaning of the word "concealed"? I take it "conceal" means a deliberate attempt to hide away from the people.

Mr. MacDERMOT—Yes.

President DE VALERA—I say that is untrue.

Mr. MacDERMOT—Would they have been published if I had not asked the question?

President DE VALERA—I say that it is untrue to say that these telegrams were deliberately withheld from the people. They were not published—none of them was published—because non-publication of them was directly in line with our whole attitude on the question, and when I was asked for them I gave them without apology in the very same terms I have given them now.

The vote was agreed to, Mr. Frank MacDermot asking to be recorded as not agreeing.

COMMENT AWAITS DETAILS

By Our Political Correspondent.

Under the existing conditions the Governor-General is appointed by the King "on the advice of the Executive Council." Now Mr. de Valera says that the substitute for him is to be elected by the people; but it was pointed out by one authority on constitutional law last night that, in the absence of fuller details, it would not be possible to say if that would contravene the law, since, having been elected by the people, it would be in the hands of the Executive Council to advise the Crown to make the appointment of the individual so elected.

The feeling in the Parliamentary lobbies last night was that the President's speech was entirely characteristic in that it left so much to be imagined. It was felt that until the text of the new Constitution was published it would be impossible to make any adequate comment upon it.

In some quarters it was believed that the scheme would, in certain respects, conflict with the Treaty of 1921, but here again, in the absence of details, it was impossible to come to any definite conclusion.

APATHY OF ELECTORS

LITTLE INTEREST IN POLLING

DUBLIN COUNTY, HOWTH AND DUN LAOGHAIRE

Little interest was taken by the public in the local elections throughout County Dublin during the greater part of yesterday. Towards evening, however, the numbers of voters at the booths increased. Despite the fact that these were the first elections for local authorities at which everyone over the age of twenty-one had a vote, the younger people did not seem particularly enthusiastic.

The voting covered the Dublin County Council, Dun Laoghaire Corporation and the Howth Urban District Council.

On a register at Dun Laoghaire Town Hall, which carried 8,000 names, about 15 per cent. had voted by the middle of the afternoon. A register in Howth showed that about 25 per cent. of the persons on it had voted before 5 o'clock.

Mr. de Valera voted at his local polling station about lunch time.

After 6 o'clock—and particularly between 7.30 and 9 p.m.—there was a very steady stream of voters in the townships such as Blackrock, Dun Laoghaire, and Balbriggan. In Killiney at about 8 p.m. a long queue of persons was waiting to register their votes.

After the close of the poll last night Mr. P. J. Murphy estimated that the total poll for the County Council was about 50 per cent. The electorate totals 69,100, as compared with 35,000 at the last election.

The Howth poll was estimated to be about 45 per cent., although voting had been slow. The number on the voters' register was 2,100.

Dun Laoghaire's poll for the Corporation is believed to have been between 55 and 60 per cent., the total number of voters registered in the coastal borough is 25,175. Out of 7,683 voters in Dun Laoghaire itself 4,360 polled; in Glasthule 2,213 out of 4,316 voted, and in Dalkey 1,634 out of 2,794.

The ballot boxes for the County Council were taken to the Technical Schools, Parnell square, Dublin, last night, and counting will start this morning. First results are expected between 1 and 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the count will be finished late to-night.

Howth Urban District Council counting will take place in the municipal offices to-day.

The boxes for the Dun Laoghaire Corporation were all taken to the local Town Hall in readiness for to-day's count.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE CATTLE SUBSIDY

The Times observes in a leading article to-day:—The House of Commons will be asked to-day to continue until the end of October the cattle subsidy, which for the past two years has stood between the live-stock industry and ruin. This arrangement was originally made to help the industry over a few months, while a long-term policy was being negotiated with other countries, and it has had to be continued at short intervals ever since because these difficult negotiations have not yet succeeded. It is clear that the difficulties of beef-producers in this country are due to many causes—notably a great increase in competitive imports and a change in public taste towards smaller joints—but that none of these causes is the fault of the producers themselves. Thus the problem of helping them is difficult enough in any case. But, in addition, up to July, 1934, the Government was forbidden under the Ottawa agreements to reduce imports from Australia and New Zealand below the total for the year 1931-'32, and there can be no import duty before August of next year. Moreover, though supplies from the Argentine have been substantially curtailed, they cannot be reduced below a certain point without the reduction being extended to other suppliers, and no duty can be imposed before next November.

In addition to these legal difficulties there are grave and conflicting practical considerations which The Times mentions, and it then proceeds:—There is a further reason why an early agreement has become increasingly desirable upon lines which will secure the maintenance, and indeed the expansion, of British agriculture. Sir Thomas Inskip is now conducting an inquiry into the capacity of this country to feed itself in time of war. National defence is not a new, but has become a prominent, reason for promoting the revival of agriculture, coupled with a vigorous prosecution of the policy of improving public health by turning the public taste to home products, which are, or could be, produced in large quantities. The production of meat and of live-stock products at present requires the importation of large quantities of feeding-stuffs, and this process, which is indispensable to a nation pre-eminent in the ranks of meat-eaters and favoured with unrivalled pasture land, really represents the conversion of one kind of food into another.

A permanent meat policy has become not only the requirement of a deserving industry, but the need of an anxious nation, and Parliament, though unlikely to challenge the short extension of a temporary policy, will certainly approve it only with the assurance of the speedy fulfilment of wider undertakings.

OIL REFINERY PROPOSAL

COLONEL RUSSELL'S VIEWS

Colonel Russell, after a meeting of Irish Shell, Ltd., yesterday, referring to the establishment of a refinery, said some two years ago the company was asked for a report as to the feasibility of a Saorstat refinery. A report was submitted. It was not favourable from the point of view of employment. In the manufacture of petrol and the various other by-products, the employment given at a refinery was disappointing. A refinery would employ no more than 150, so that from the point of view of the economics of the Saorstat, a refinery was not an economical propoosition.

FIVE DEAD IN AIR CRASH

A naval lieutenant and four other pilots of the French Naval Air Force were killed when two seaplanes collided during manœuvres over Haineville yesterday.

A verdict of death by "misadventure, due to a collision in the air while carrying out formation flight evolutions," was brought in by the jury at the inquest in Penang on four R.A.F. fliers, who lost their lives on May 23rd.

THE PROBLEM OF YOUTH

POSITION IN THE FREE STATE

ATTITUDE TOWARDS ITALY

The annual general meeting of the Oliver Plunket Union, a society of Catholic clergy, was the occasion of the reading of a remarkable paper on the problem of youth, and a protest by the Rector of the Irish College in Rome on the attitude of the Government of this country towards Italy.

The meeting was held in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin. The Very Rev. Monsignor Langan presided.

The Papal Nuncio, the Most Rev. Dr. MacNeely, Bishop of Raphoe, and the Right Rev. Dr. Neville, Bishop of Carre, and a large number of distinguished clergy were present.

The Rev. J. Butler, S.T.L., C.C., Wexford, read a paper on "A Problem of Youth and its Solution," in the course of which he said that within the last six months the daily Press had reported statements from individuals in highly responsible positions, which lent colour to the view that a youth problem definitely existed, and was of no small magnitude. The first of these statements was made by a legal luminary in the post-prandial atmosphere of a St. Patrick's Day banquet, who suggested that our educational system had failed, and that we needed a new St. Patrick to convert our young people. The second statement was made by a superintendent of the Garda, who professed himself in despair, and strongly appealed to the Justice in Waterford City to assist the Garda in their efforts to stamp out juvenile crime, which was rampant.

A REBUTTAL

Father Butler quoted other statements, and said that the cumulative effect of these reports was so strong that he became convinced that young Ireland was, indeed, degenerate. That conviction had, however, been shaken by a very fine address delivered in April at the National Teachers' Congress by the Chief Scout, Professor Whelehan, who had made a vigorous rebuttal of the case for an alarming increase in juvenile delinquency. He had been driven himself to study the statistics of crime returns. He found that in 1934—the year in question—the total number of indictable offences in the whole of the Saorstat committed by girls under 16 was only nine, and, in the case of boys—though considerably higher—still very small in comparison with the population. In Limerick, with a boy population of under 16 years of age numbering about 7,000, only 19 were convicted of serious crime; in Waterford, with a boy population of 16 years, and under, numbering about 4,000, there were only 9 offenders. In the whole of the Saorstat in 1934, with a boy population of over 500,000, the number of offenders was 268. He held that these and other figures quoted suggested that, as far as indictable crime was concerned, there was little evidence of degeneracy among the youth of Ireland, or any need for undue alarm as to "a wave of juvenile crime."

THE DINNER

The Most Rev. Dr. Pascal Robinson was the guest of honour at the dinner. The Right Rev. Monsignor Langan, P.P., D.D., V.G., Dean of Ardagh and Clonmacnoise, presided over a large attendance.

The toast of "The Pope" having been honoured, the Bishop of Raphoe proposed the toast of "The Apostolic Nuncio," who, in replying, assured the Union of his sympathy and support.

The Right Rev. Monsignor Curran, Rector of the Irish College in Rome, replying to the toast of "Alma Mater," said that its academic record was most satisfactory.

ITALY

"I think it my duty," continued Monsignor Curran, "to renew my protest at the attitude of this country towards Italy. Italy has received Irish students in dark and evil days, and the least we might have done, I think, was to have examined the case of Italy, and that was not done. Italy was declared an aggressor. She may have been an aggressor, but she was not an unprovoked aggressor. The League of Nations, he said, was called upon to intervene on behalf of a defaulting member—a member that was allowed into the League on the condition that she would reform and put down slavery, and should not have been listened to any more than a member of a club who had failed to pay his subscriptions.

INSURANCE CARDS MISLAID

LABOUR CHARGE AGAINST UNIFIED SOCIETY

Mr. T. J. MURPHY (Labour, Cork, W.) asked the Minister for Local Government in Dail Eireann whether he was aware that owing to the neglect of the Unified Society some thousands of stamped Health Insurance cards surrendered to the Society by insured members were mislaid and subsequently destroyed; whether he had taken any and, if so, what action to establish the ownership of the destroyed cards with a view to having the proper number of contributions credited to the insured persons affected; whether he proposed taking any steps to ensure that, pending the final adjustment arising out of the loss of the stamped cards, insured persons whose cards were destroyed would not be deprived of benefit to which they were otherwise entitled, and whether he would indicate the steps he proposed taking to obviate a recurrence of the incident in question.

The Minister (Mr. S. T. O'KELLY) said that he was informed by the Society that a parcel of cards for the first half of 1934 had been temporarily mislaid, but that there was no reason to assume they had been destroyed. The contributions on these cards had already been credited to the insured persons concerned, and, therefore, no question arose of any insured person losing benefit by reason of the fact that the cards had been mislaid.

Mr. MURPHY asked was it not the fact that the cards believed to have been mislaid were given to a contractor for waste-paper, and that this man stated that the material received had all been destroyed? Was the Minister aware that a number of applicants for benefits were now being queried on the grounds that their cards did not appear to have been received, and would the Minister indicate what steps were being taken to ascertain the names of the insured persons whose cards were lost, and what steps were being taken to safeguard their interests?

The MINISTER said he was not aware that what the deputy stated was the fact. He had been told that the cards had been temporarily mislaid.

"MAN'S THIRTEEN MURDERS"

From Our Correspondent.

NEWRY, Wednesday.

"On one occasion she received a letter from him containing a newspaper cutting headed: "Man's Thirteen Murders after a Quarrel with Nagging Wife." The cutting was headed "Beware." This was a statement made by Mrs. Isabella Doran of Monaghan street, Newry, in a suit for maintenance against her husband, Nicholas Doran, a dentist. She stated that he assaulted her many times, and dragged her downstairs by the hair. Corroborative evidence was given by Miss E. O'Hare and Miss Kathleen McGovern, two shop assistants.

Defendant denied that he gave his wife a black eye, and said that he took the gas-ring out of the scullery because he was afraid she would gas herself and him also when in a mad fit.

The R.M. made an order for 25s. per week.

Sudden Death.—Jack Purcell, of Aherne's terrace, Ennis, aged about forty-two, died suddenly at Ennis yesterday.

SHORTHORN BREEDERS MEET

From Our Reporter.

CORK, Wednesday.

Miss Montgomery, Mitchelstown, presided at a meeting of the Executive Council, Dairy Shorthorn Breeders, held at Cork Showgrounds to-day. In response to an invitation from the Department of Agriculture, the outgoing representatives—Messrs. Perce Moloney, Thurles, and W. O'Callaghan, Lombardstown—were appointed representatives to the Live Stock and Consultative Council.

A resolution was adopted on the motion of Mr. D. O'Connor, Mallow, and seconded by Mr. T. Twomey, requesting the Minister for Agriculture to make arrangements whereby old and uneconomic cows would be taken from members of cow-testing associations at Roscrea Meat Factory in November and December next.

The Chairman said that the action of the Minister last spring in this connection had given a great impetus to the cow-testing movement.

A local working committee was appointed to arrange for the society's congress to be held in Cork in January, 1937.

On the suggestion of the Limerick branch, it was unanimously decided to nominate the Earl of Dunraven for the vice-presidency of the society for 1937.

IRISH MOTOR INDEPENDENCE

REASON FOR LE MANS OBJECTION

LIMERICK'S IMPORTANCE AT STAKE

From Our Motoring Correspondent.

The Irish Free State in motor sport occupies a position of complete independence. In the international governing body, the Association Internationale des Automobile-Clubs Reconnus, the Royal Irish Automobile Club is subservient to no other club, and, in theory at least, it is equal to the Royal Automobile Clubs of Britain, Italy, Belgium, etc.

It was not merely to demonstrate its independence, however, that the Club opposed the transfer of the date of the Grand Prix de l'Endurance to August 1st and 2nd. The Limerick Grand Prix street race, which is of greater international importance than Le Mans (as the Endurance race usually is known, owing to the proximity of the Sarthe circuit to Le Mans), is to be held on 3rd August, and it would have been inadvisable to permit of any clash with an event which might seem to overshadow the importance of the Irish event.

Le Mans originally was arranged to be held on 13th and 14th June. Owing to the French strikes it was postponed, and a proposal to hold the race on 20th and 21st June was opposed by the British Royal Automobile Club, because it would have clashed with the County Down Trophy. August 1st and 2nd then were suggested as new dates for the race, but both the British and Irish clubs objected, the former on the ground that the French race might affect entries for the Brooklands Bank Holiday meeting.

CRITICISM EXPECTED

The French race now has been postponed until 1937, and there is certain to be a great amount of criticism of both the R.A.C. and R.I.A.C. in the British motoring Press because of their attitude. The French race is for standard cars, an entirely different type of event from the formulæ Grand Prix races, and is one of the few Continental events in which English cars have a chance. As a result many English motoring enthusiasts regard it as a sort of English preserve, and in the English motoring Press it obtains publicity out of all proportion to its real international significance.

Already it has been stated that the English and Irish clubs have adopted a "dog in the manger attitude." As far as the objection to a clash with Bangor is concerned, that might be so, but Limerick's race is in an entirely different position.

It is almost certain, for example, that some of those entered for Le Mans will want to compete at Limerick. Furthermore, this is Limerick's first year as an international priority event, and it would be unjust to permit the competition at the same week-end of an event which might seem of equal importance.

A French correspondent has taken an entirely wrong standpoint in declaring that Limerick is an event for racing cars, and, therefore, has no right to object to Le Mans, which is for sports cars. Actually, Limerick is a "free for all," in which sports as well as racing cars will take part.

Jealous holding to international privileges has developed in recent years owing to the most unsportsmanlike attitude of the Italian Club, which has done its best to stymie both English and Irish events. The English and Irish clubs now can scarcely be blamed if they make the safeguarding of their own competitions a primary concern.

A Typical Kruschen Figure of Health and Vivacity.

Lost 19lbs. Fat

Gains 'That Kruschen Figure'

The way to look young and feel young is to be free from the burden of unwanted fat. And you can—yes, easily—even if you are shockingly over weight, get 'that Kruschen figure.' Mrs. A. G. H. lost 19lbs. of ugly fat. She admits she's 49 years old, yet her friends don't think she is 40. Kruschen salts got rid of her fat—it can do the same for you. Read her letter:—

'A few years ago I began to put on fat terribly, but thanks to Kruschen I have reduced my bust, waist and hips by several inches. I am 49 next birthday, and no one thinks I am 40 (thanks to my Kruschen figure), measurements of which I give below, compared with what they were before taking Kruschen Salts:—

BEFORE
Weight ...... 10st. 8½lbs.
Bust .... 36 ins.
Waist .... 31½ ins.
Hips .... 42½ ins.

AFTER
Weight ...... 9st. 3½lbs.
Bust .... 33 ins.
Waist .... 28 ins.
Hips .... 38 ins.

I took no special diet, nor did I do any strenuous exercise.'
Mrs. A. G. H., Cambs.

How Kruschen Salts Reduce Fat SAFELY.

The way Kruschen Salts remove fat is simple as A.B.C. Fat consists chiefly of fatty acid. When the alkaline salts of Kruschen get into the blood they convert these fatty acids into a new substance, the particles of which can be quickly expelled from the system. The blood then draws on the excess fat already in the tissues, uses this for body energy requirements, and thus gets rid of it. That is the scientific reason why Kruschen is supreme as a fat-reducer.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE. The large bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) still costs only 1/9. Do not pay more.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

COUP DE ROI'S VICTORY

Young England Wins Cleverly from Cora Pearl

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday Night.

GREAT memories were recalled here this afternoon when an Irish-bred and Irish-trained colt, Sir Percy Loraine's Coup de Roi, won the Northumberland Plate—memories of a legendary horse called Barcaldine that was never beaten, and came from Ireland to win this race as long ago as 1883.

I call Coup de Roi Irish-trained because he only left Mr. More-O'Ferrall's stable last week to come and run for the Ascot Stakes. The fact that he has spent a few days since under the care of Mr. R. C. Dawson does not make him out English-trained, although his success will be placed to the credit of the Whatcombe trainer in the winning tables.

No more is Coup de Roi, who is by Winalot, English-bred than he is English-trained. Mr. More-O'Ferrall bought him for 680 guineas at the Dublin sales from a batch of yearlings sent to Ballsbridge from the Pollardstown Stud.

It has given Sir Percy Loraine, who has been British Ambassador to Turkey since he retired from his post as High Commissioner in Egypt, particular pleasure to win this race, for his ancestors have been settled in Durham and Northumberland since the Conquest, and it has always been a dream of his, in the little time his diplomatic duties have given for relaxation in racing, to win this particular race.

A Clear Run

The four-year-old was again ridden by E. Smith, and in a small field he got the clear run which was denied him in the mêlée of the Ascot Stakes. He came from behind when they were half-way up the straight, and then he won with supreme ease by four lengths.

It seemed that Newtown Ford would be second, but Plunger came from last place, travelling very fast, to get up and force a division of the second money.

An objection was lodged by Nevett, the rider of Newtown Ford, which did not seem over-generous considering the distance by which Coup de Roi had won, and the Stewards over-ruled it.

Ten-year-old's Success

Ten-year-old Fuzzy Wuzzy keeps his form well, and starting favourite in what was regarded as an open race for the Gibside Selling Plate, he won a thrilling race by a head from Sureline. I cannot remember how many races Sam Armstrong has won for Mr. Farquhar Deuchar with the ten-year-old, for whom he had to go to 280 guineas to buy in.

The stock of the grey sire, Prestissimo, who was only a fair racehorse, are doing well; and another of them, Sir Victor Sassoon's Gullible, who was ridden by Donoghue, beat the favourite, Temple, in the Angerton Maiden Plate.

There was still another Irish-bred winner when Fidelma, by Prince Galahad from Girasole, who only cost Mr. Bert Rich 100 guineas when Mr. D. Gleeson sent her to the Dublin Sales, won the Monkchester Plate.

Good Winning Platers

This was a good class open race, and the result shows how good our winning platers must be; for she and the second, Canard, made their last appearances in selling events, Fidelma being bought back to the stable of Bob Adams for 575 guineas, while Canard cost Mr. Persse 770 guineas to retain on behalf of Mr. Lazard after he had won at Kempton.

There is a good story attached to the latter buying in, because, as the colt is tubed and only won by a short head, his trainer thought he would get him back for a couple of hundreds. There was a strange American planted next the auctioneer, who put in bid for bid with the trainer. Then the stranger approached Mr. Persse, and suggested that he might like to take a thousand pounds for the horse.

At that moment his friend dashed up, tearing his hair, and, in a raucous whisper, pointed out to his mate that the horse had a hole in his throat. Both promptly disappeared, and it is not on record that they have bid for a plater since. Their regrettable interruption cost Mr. Lazard about £500.

Selections

Racing will be continued to-morrow afternoon at Gosforth, where the Seaton Delaval Plate should be won by ROYAL ROMANCE. The Gosforth Park Cup may go to BARNAGEERA, and the St. Oswald Plate to CONFESSION BOY.

At Brighton I like the chance of MARIE LOUISE in the Sussex Plate; SKY WOLFE may win the Regency Plate, and SWORD HILT the Whitehawk Welter Handicap.

CURRAGH MEETING.

AN ENGLISH SCORE

Home-Trained Horses Second and Third in Irish Derby

THE Irish Derby, as anticipated, proved a great attraction for racegoers, and the crowd at the Curragh yesterday must have compared favourably with the best attendances seen on the course in any previous years. It was a splendid race, and, though won by Raeburn, an English-bred and trained horse, a fair share of the honours went to Ireland; for Battle Song and Hocus Pocus were second and third, and the winner is owned by an Irishman, Mr. S. D. Hollinsworth, who resides at Woking, in Surrey.

In a way, it was not quite a satisfactory race; for there was some scrimmaging in the straight, and both Hocus Pocus and Barrystar were sufferers as a consequence. The trouble, however, was in no way due to Raeburn, who won on his merits. He is an own brother to Orpen, and was bred by Sir John Rutherford. The disappointment of the race was Bala Hissar, who never appeared to hold a winning chance, and finished fifth just behind Barrystar. Battle Song proved that he is the best of the Irish classic horses, and with Raeburn out of the way Major Shirley's colt would doubtless have won; but had Hocus Pocus not met with interference there probably would have been a close finish between them, just as there was in the Irish Two Thousand Guineas.

CA-CA-CE STAYS WELL

There was practically no betting over the Pollardstown Plate, the odds asked for about My Auburn being regarded as prohibitive. As matters turned out, it was by no means the good thing for Mr. V. Smith's colt that it was thought to be; for it took him all his time to stall off the sustained challenge of White Vixen, and it was only in the last fifty yards that he succeeded in doing so. There was little to choose as between Ca-Ca-Ce and Cabinteely as regards favouritism for the King's Plate, but the former left off in fractionally better request. The race was run at a moderate pace, and when Miss Knight retired, after doing the early pace-making, Kildonan's Hope went away with a long lead, which Ca-Ca-Ce kept reducing all the way up the straight to ultimately gain a two lengths' advantage passing the winning post. Sale ran in most disappointing style, being beaten early, and Cabinteely failed to stay the full journey.

Wood Maid was not a runner for the Mountjoy Selling Plate, and in her absence Never Wink and Manilda were the best fancied. Of the two Manilda made the better showing, but he never looked like having any chance with Gurtnafleur, who was in front from start to finish. The winner is the property of Mr. O. T. V. Slocock, and it was not out of turn that such a sporting owner got a slice of luck. The winner was subsequently submitted to auction, but failed to elicit a bid.

Knight o' London, who has been making a clean sweep of the maiden hurdle races during the season, failed to justify his position as favourite for the Maddenstown Plate. He was in a good position as the field swung into the straight, but faded out when tackled by Grey Crusader and Silver Salt, and the former of this pair, staying on well, held off the late challenge of Royal Tribute to score by three-parts of a length.

CHONI'S POPULAR WIN

Backers' luck had not been too good throughout the afternoon, but their worst reverse came when Choni, a 50 to 1 chance, beat the odds-on favourite, Manifold, in the Newbridge Plate. This very genuine mare, who had run in the Scurry Plate on Tuesday, is the most popular racehorse in training, a fact which was revealed by the enthusiastic reception she received when returning to the unsaddling enclosure after winning a race for which she had hardly a shilling of support in the wagering. As usual, she was ridden by one of her owner's sons, H. A. Fox, and if she is saddled again for the Apprentices' Plate to-day she will not be allowed to start at odds of 50 to 1. Details:—

CURRAGH PROGRAMME

BIG TWO-YEAR-OLD TEST

The Diamond Gets the Vote for Waterford Testimonial

Trains—Kingsbridge, 11.30 a.m., 1.10 p.m., and 1.30 p.m.

THE third day's racing at the Curragh will be tame by comparison with that of yesterday, but an interesting race is promised for the Waterford Testimonial Stakes. The Leopardstown winner, Sol Speranza, will be fancied again, and The Diamond, who whipped round at the start of that race, must also come into consideration. Should the latter get off on level terms with the others he may prove that Sol Speranza was a lucky winner on the previous occasion.

Tote Double on Third and Fifth Races.

Choni incurs a 7lb. penalty in the Apprentices' Plate for her success of yesterday, but as she is a mare that thrives on racing she may score again. Selections:—

Apprentices' Plate—Choni.
Harristown Plate—Woology.
Waterford Testimonial Stakes—The Diamond.

FLAXLEY TOM FANCIED

Old Folk May Win Sussex Plate at Brighton

THERE is not likely to be a better medium for speculation at Newcastle's final stage than the John Osborne Handicap; for judging by all accounts several of the dozen candidates are strongly fancied. As Peacock has left in London Pride to the exclusion of two others it will come as no surprise if his representative attracts a big following. The filly has a good home reputation, and last time out she was backed in confident manner for a useful-class race at Redcar. She failed to finish in the first nine, and there is a possibility that she does not reproduce her best form on the racecourse.

Debrett has been running well all the season, without managing to catch the judge's eye. He will not be very wide of the mark if he runs as well as at Leicester, when third to Sandstar and Hopetoun. Kaor has been subjected to a lot of strong work during the past month. The chief point in his favour is that he likes hard going.

Daysight will represent the stable which won the race last year, but his consistent form has not been overlooked by the handicapper. Queen's Shilling is none the worse for her effort in the Gold Vase at Ascot. She is a good stayer, with a fine chance on early season form.

Flaxley Tom may not have made the journey from Lambourn in vain. He ran his best race of the season when second to Reefer at Ayr last month. Taking a line through Latoi he should account for Pinfire. King's Courtier is certain to run well with bottom weight. He may have been in need of a race when third to Distort and Fanlaw at Ripon. My choice in an open race is FLAXLEY TOM.

Although the Seaton Delaval Plate is a fairly valuable race, there are no outstanding juveniles engaged. Stefan of Chichester is certainly nothing out of the ordinary, and I doubt if he will give weight and a beating to either Royal Romance or La Cenerentola.

ROYAL ROMANCE

is one of the best youngsters at Middleham. I thought he was none too lucky when third to Flying Scotsman and Catnip at Manchester, and I expect to see him win this time.

The yielding going did not suit Theio in the Wokingham Stakes. He will have conditions to his liking in the Gosforth Park Cup, and few will beat him. I take my chance, however, with a winner on the course, who has been leniently treated.

Gordon Richards may further delight holiday-makers at Brighton. I have a big fancy for his mount, in the Sussex Plate. The four-year-old won easily on his only appearance at Hurst Park about three weeks ago. The handicapper may not have charged him enough for that success. The chief danger may come from Home Jame̱s.

OLD FOLK,

In the Regency Plate

SKY WOLFE

appeals as the best proposition on the card. He gave a great display against Tip the Wink at Epsom, and apparently likes a downhill course.

SWORD HILT

has the best credentials of a rather moderate lot in the Whitehawk Handicap. He finished very strongly when third to Duddington and Manchukuo at Birmingham.

Tote (2/-)—Win, 7/3; places, 3/6 Coup de Roi, 7/3 Plunger, 3/9 Newtown Ford.

Passing the stands the first time So Sorry was leading from Satsuma, Greynam and Coup de Roi, with Lanson last. After going a mile Satsuma went to the front attended by Newtown Ford, So Sorry and Coup de Roi, with Lanson still in the rear. Coming round the far bend Satsuma was followed by Coup de Roi, Newtown Ford and So Sorry, with Plunger now last. Half-way up the straight Coup de Roi took command, and then came Satsuma, Newtown Ford, Plunger and Greynam. Coup de Roi increased his lead, while Plunger drew up to Newtown Ford, and the pair dead-heated for second place four lengths behind Coup de Roi. Lanson was fourth, Greynam fifth and So Sorry last. Time—3 mins. 25 2-5 secs. An objection to the winner was overruled.

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY

NEWMARKET, Wednesday.

At Newcastle the Camperdown Selling Handicap may be won by

SCOTCH MINT (nap),

who has shown improvement of late.

Tap Dancer has to concede 10lb. to in the Seaton Delaval Plate, and I prefer the latter.

LA CENERENTOLA

Theio has 9st. 7lb. in the Gosforth Park Cup, but, as the minimum impost is 7st., the weight is not so prohibitive. Barnageera and Alder Rose will be dangerous, but I prefer is our only runner for the Morpeth Selling Plate. She is in splendid trim, and should be thereabouts at the finish.

THEIO (next best).

AUTUMN LEAF

We have four fancied candidates for the John Osborne Handicap in King's Courtier, Parole, Kaor and

and as the last-named ran well in the Gold Vase at Ascot I shall take him to represent me.

MILDRED

may be near the mark for the St. Oswald Plate.

My fancies at Brighton are:—2.0, Vingty; 2.30, Queen of the Hills filly; 3.0, H. W.; 3.30, Saraikala; 4.0, Curraghmore; 4.30, Poncho.

WORK AT THE CURRAGH

BEHAN sent The Diamond three furlongs sharply. Loukem, Serpent's Tooth, and others cantered five furlongs.

BRABAZON'S Invader and Knockumber galloped five furlongs.

J. DAWSON'S Shady Lane went a mile at three-parts speed. Mill Man came shaply four furlongs. Fair Dawn had a similar spin.

PARKINSON'S Down, Irish Player, Koppies, Gracedieu, Lady Mystery, and Beefeater galloped four furlongs; Zadora, Docket, Invernisk, Ardanew, Rose Glory, Parsonstown, and Sunny Mary went a mile and a quarter.

SLOCOCK'S Lissadell went three furlongs.

SELECTIONS FOR THE CURRAGH.

Apprentices' Plate—IRISH PLAYER.
Harristown Selling Plate—WOOLOGY.
Waterford Testimonial Stakes—PHIDEAS.
Nursery Plate—FAIR DAWN.
Summer Plate—INVADER.
Welter Plate—DISCOBOLES.

FINE RECOVERY BY YORKSHIRE

HENDREN SCORES HIS 160th CENTURY

GIBBONS, of Worcestershire, has not scored a hundred since 1934, and at Chesterfield yesterday he had cruel luck in getting to 99—a magnificent innings. Copson, the Derbyshire fast bowler, clean bowled five men, and the home county finished 133 behind with seven wickets intact.

The peculiarities of the Aigburth wicket had evidence in the fall of eighteen wickets for 289. Kent lost their last seven for 50, but Fagg played brilliant cricket. Freeman puzzled Lancashire, who stand 39 behind with two wickets to go.

Hendren played a characteristic century at Lord's, hitting a 6 and eight 4's in helping Middlesex to score 317 at nearly 90 an hour. This was the 160th century of his career.

Yorkshire had some early shocks at Bath, but Barber rescued them with a grand innings, and Verity and Smailes punished Somerset's bowling in a stand producing 167 in two hours. Smailes beat his previous highest score for Yorkshire.

Notts. lost six batsmen for 127 at Trent Bridge, where Hollies bowled finely for Warwickshire. Hardstaff came along with a magnificent hundred, scoring 68 runs in seventeen hits, and Lilley also reached three figures.

HOW THE MATCHES STAND

GOOD DISPLAY BY STAFF OF TRINITY

An interesting and enjoyable game was played in the College Park yesterday between Trinity Ramblers and a team from the College staff, Ramblers having a narrow win by 14 runs. Ramblers batted first, and when they declared with four wickets down for 171, made in eighty minutes, Lush was 80 not out (nine 4's).

The College staff, which included the Rev. R. M. Gwynn, who played for Trinity against the Australians in 1912 and was first sub. for the Gentlemen of Ireland, put up a fine show. O. S. Skeffington and W. B. Stanford scored 55 for the first wicket, Stanford hitting four 4's, the Rev. R. M. Gwynn had two 4's and a 3 in his 15, and Skeffington batted an hour for 31. The innings ended, after two hours and a quarter, at 157. Score:—

Seeded Players Through: Miss Wallis at Her Best

IT was a bewildering day in the championships at Wimbledon yesterday, there were so many attractive matches on the sixteen courts that spectators found it difficult to decide which to watch. All the seeded men, including Fred Perry and G. Von Cramm reached the third round, and only "Bitsy" Grant of U.S.A., who lost a set to M. D. Delford, the former junior champion, had to go beyond three sets. Five of the seven remaining seeded women players were on court yesterday, and they all reached the third round.

Students of form were able to watch Fred Perry and Jack Crawford in succeeding matches on court one, but they got little idea of the merits of either. K. Chartikavanij, a Siamese Cambridge Blue, played a methodical game against a rather subdued Perry, and took seven games in the three sets. Perry was not troubled at any time, and although careless, especially with his back-hand, which all to frequently failed to clear the net, he was generally able to clinch a point when he needed it by volleying.

HARE'S EFFORT

One cannot yet be sure that Perry has fully recovered his powers of concentration. Crawford, in the face of much stouter opposition from C. E. Hare, a young Midland left hander, had perforce to display better tennis. Hare made some surprisingly good bursts. After winning the first two sets rather easily, Crawford found himself passed at the net in the third round, and the Englishman led 3-2 and 5-4. Hare was playing so confidently with a fierce backhand drive that he gave hopes of winning the set, but by double-faulting he allowed Crawford to go ahead at 6-5. The Australian was unfortunate in having two doubtful line decisions given against him when at match point in the twelfth game. Hare then saved two more match points and won the game on the Australian's double fault. Crawford gave no more chances, however, and strolled through the next two games for the set and match.

One of the best wins of the day was that of Raymond Tuckey, the British Davis Cup doubles player, who defeated Bernard Destremeau, the young French international, in the singles by three sets to one—7-5, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2. Tuckey's volleying was as good as any seen at Wimbledon this year. Destremeau tried his hardest to keep the British Army champion away from the net, but failed, and that was why he lost the match.

Ireland's run of failure was checked when Miss Hilda Wallis gained a splendid victory in straight sets over Mlle. Wittenstrom, a well-known Swedish player. Mlle. Wittenstrom has some victories to her credit over Frl. Horn, conqueror of Mrs. Fabyan on Tuesday, but she was no match for the hard-driving Irish woman yesterday. Results:—

ANGLING

COROFIN ANGLERS' ASSOCIATION

At a committee meeting of the Corofin Anglers' Association a vote was passed congratulating the Fisheries Commission on their recommendations for the reform of the Irish inland fisheries on a national basis.

The following members were unanimously elected on the committee of the Association:—Messrs. J. Duggan, S. Cosgrave, and T. Slattery, Ennis; and M. Hynes, F. Scales, M. Cunningham, and P. Neylan, Corofin.

During the preceding year a considerable amount of money was expended in opening spawning grounds at Rath Lake, clearing obstructions in local portions of the Fergus, and as prize money in pike-fishing competitions.

Through the courtesy of Dr. Rawlence, a member of the Association, a special pike-trap had been acquired, and was being successfully used in the local waters. This was the only pike-trap of its kind in the Irish Free State.

Messrs. T. G. Studdert and J. Murray were unanimously elected to represent Clare on the Standing Committee of the recently-formed Munster Anglers' Association.

COTTON CHALLENGED

Caddie-Assistant Springs Surprise at Hoylake

HOYLAKE, Wednesday.

WALTER SMITHERS, a thirty years old unattached assistant professional, who has been carrying clubs in order to make a living since his return from Canada, provided a last minute surprise on the Royal Liverpool Club's course here to-day by challenging Henry Cotton for the leading place among the qualifiers for the Open Championship.

Smithers began his second round long after Cotton had finished at Wallasey with a 71 for a total of 139 for the 36 holes. Everyone expected the ex-champion to end the day with a lead of four strokes over Percy Alliss and Gene Sarazen. Then Smithers proceeded to "burn up" the Hoylake course in emulation of Cotton.

He did the first nine in 33, and with three holes to play needed but three fours to set up a course record, and wrest first place from the leader. The spectators raced across the links to watch him, and the large gallery was too much for him. He pulled his second shot at each of the last three holes, and three fives instead of fours was the result.

Smithers finished in 70 instead of 67, and so was two strokes behind Cotton with a total of 141. Employed in the professionals shop at Sunningdale, he went to Cambridge as assistant at the Royal Ottawa Club for six years, and came back to England eighteen months ago.

Carrying clubs and giving occasional lessons, he was able to earn a livelihood until he was engaged as professional coach by Mr. J. M. Baillieu, the Australian member of this year's Oxford University team. He accompanied Mr Baillieu to Hoylake last March for the inter-'Varsity match, and was also at St Andrews during the Amateur Championship. He is short of stature but wiry of build, and has one of the fullest swings ever seen in championship golf. In the first qualifying round he returned 71 at Wallasey, and his form suggests that he will be a strong challenger for the title.

Smithers played two splendid iron shots on the outward journey, and one remarkable stroke at the short thirteenth. His ball lay in a pitch mark on the green. Taking a lofted iron he holed out from eight yards for a "birdie" 2.

COTTON TEN UNDER FOURS FOR THREE ROUNDS

Cotton, who saw the end of Smithers' effort, completed a remarkable performance in the qualifying stages by going round Wallasey in 71, thus being ten under fours for three successive rounds in the longest open championship test ever imposed.

Alfred Perry, the holder, did not find it easy even to gain a place, and he had more than one anxious moment in a round of 78 at Hoylake for a total of 154.

The record-breaking of to-day was left to Britain's best amateur, Hector Thomson, who returned a 68 at Wallasey to beat the 71 of Mr. George von Elm, American Walker Cup player, made six years ago in the Open Championship.

Of the Irishmen only Dr. Flaherty, who plays for Ireland in the Internationals at Prestwick next month, and Syd Fairweather, of Malone, qualified. William Nolan and P. J. Mahon failed by only one stroke.

A change was made in the English side, Mr. Hughes playing instead of Mr. Fowler, who had injured a hand at practice. Mr. Hughes scored 6 for England, Mr. Balding 2, and Mr. Martin 1. The English shooting was poor in the later stages, and the home players were well mastered by the tactical methods of the Americans.

THE MEXICAN EAGLE OIL COMPANY, LIMITED

(Compania Mexicana de Petroleo "El Aguila" S.A.).

REPORT BY THE MANAGERS.

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS, THE MEXICAN EAGLE OIL COMPANY, LIMITED. (Compania Mexicana de Petroleo "El Aguila" S.A.)

The Accounts issued by the Directors are presented in Mexican currency, in accordance with Mexican law, but, following previous practice for the better understanding of Shareholders who subscribed for their shares in sterling, a sterling Profit and Loss Account and Balance Sheet accompany the Report.

The official Government rates of exchange adopted in the accounts for conversion into sterling of Mexican pesos and U.S. dollar net floating assets and liabilities, at 31st December, 1934, and 31st December, 1935, respectively, were:—

	1934.	1935.
Mexican pesos to £1 sterling	17.75	17.75
Mexican pesos to U.S. $1	3.55	3.60

The rates of exchange adopted at 31st December, 1934, and 31st December, 1935, between U.S. dollars and sterling were:—

	1934.	1935.
U.S. dollars to £1 sterling	5.00	4.93

1—PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT.

Exchange conditions as between sterling and U.S. dollars and U.S. dollars and Mexican pesos again remained fairly constant throughout the year, so that the sterling and Mexican peso trading results for 1935 are exactly related on the basis of an exchange rate of 17¾ Mexican pesos to £1.

The trading results of the year—after crediting reserves not required, and after deducting depreciation and reserves, and providing for the disposition of the Amatlan lawsuit—showed a profit of	£895,891
Add Interest (net)	16,390
Total	£912,281
Deduct Mexican Income and Absentee Taxes	207,184
Total	£705,097
Deduct Dividend on 7 p.c. Cumulative First Preference Shares for the year 1935	83,113
	£621,984
Add Balance brought forward from 1934	11,180
Leaving	£633,164
which it is proposed to apply as follows:—
Dividend of 10 pence per Share on 8 p.c. Participating Preference Shares	£35,417
Dividend of 10 pence per Share on Ordinary Shares	586,782
Carry Forward to next year	10,965
Total	£633,164

In view of the disposal of the Amatlan lawsuit, the Dividend on the 7 p.c. Cumulative First Preference Shares for the six months to 30th April, 1936, and the accumulated Dividend for the two preceding years, were paid in May, 1936.

Notwithstanding the somewhat improved position in the industry generally, your company's participation in which has made possible the resumption of Dividends, there are still certain disquieting factors, including the over-production of crude oil and the accumulation of excessive stocks of products. Consequently, over-optimism as to the immediate future would be unwise.

2—BALANCE SHEET.

SHARE CAPITAL—The Capital of the Company has been reduced during the year by the amortisation in the terms of their issue of 29,000 7 p.c. Cumulative First Preference Shares, having a redemption value of £12,180.

BUILDINGS, REFINERIES, FIELD INSTALLATIONS AND OTHER FIXED AND LOOSE PLANT—The outlays during the year have been considerably less than the amount of depreciation written off.

FLOATING ASSETS AND LIABILITIES—Where these exist in currencies other than sterling, conversion into sterling has been made at the respective dates ruling at 31st December, 1935.

3—PRODUCTION, PURCHASES AND SALES.

Production in 1935 was 22,386,710 barrels, obtained from the following areas:—

Panuco and adjacent fields	1,022,784 Barrels.
Tampico Tuxpam area	2,193,760 "
South of Tuxpam River	8,587,345 "
Isthmus of Tehuantepec	10,582,821 "

Purchases in 1935 amounted to 4,789,259 barrels of crude oil from the Panuco and Tampico Tuxpam areas.

For the last three years production, purchases and sales of crude oil and products by the Company, the latter including oil used in operation have amounted to.—

	Production.	Purchases.	Sales.
1933	14,271,675 Barrels.	5,261,883 Barrels.	18,593,917 Barrels.
1934	17,346,231 "	4,023,394 "	22,779,421 "
1935	22,386,710 "	4,789,259 "	25,605,782 "

4—EXPLORATION.

Exploration continues in those localities where necessary in order to fulfil concessionary obligations. Geological and geophysical examination continues in other areas controlled by the Company.

5—REFINERIES.

The daily throughput of the Company's refineries during 1935 was as follows:—

Tampico	35,000 barrels.
Minatitlan	28,500 barrels.
Mexico City	6,500 barrels.

6—TRANSPORTATION.

Apart from one or two minor accidents during the year the Company's floating craft continued in normal operation.

The Company, having no further need for the "San Ugon," this tanker was returned to its owners, Eagle Oil and Shipping Company, Ltd.

7—NEW INSTALLATIONS.

Apart from certain expenditure in the fields necesasry to take care of the increasing production from Poza Rica, the only other expenditure of importance was incurred in an extensive programme for the provision of adequate and proper housing accommodation and other amenities for the workmen. It is intended to charge low rentals to the workmen for these houses, therefore a normal return will not be obtained on the capital investment.

8—LABOUR CONDITIONS.

Apart from the strikes early in the year, to which reference was made in the last annual report, operations remained practically normal at all points, but difficulties continued with the employés regarding innumerable minor points governing the conditions of labour employment.

9—CONDITIONS IN MEXICO.

The shareholders have already been informed through the Press that disposition has been made of the protracted Amatlan lawsuit.

Negotiotions for a settlement of a number of outstanding difficulties with the Government of Mexico were recently initiated, and are proceeding. It is gratifying to report that the atmosphere in which these negotiations are being conducted is a friendly one, and no effort will be spared by the company to maintain and improve these friendly relations.

10—MAP.

There is included herewith an outline map showing the various centres of the Company's activities.

11—STAFF.

The managers are pleased to record their appreciation of the continued loyal co-operation of the officials and staff of the Company during another difficult year.

CANADIAN EAGLE OIL COMPANY, LIMITED.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31st DECEMBER, 1935, TO BE SUBMITTED AT THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING, TO BE HELD IN TORONTO, CANADA, ON THE 9th JULY, 1936.

The Directors beg to submit to the Shareholders the Accounts of the Company for the year ended 31st December, 1935, together with a balance sheet as at that date

In order to comply with the requirements of the Dominion of Canada Companies Amendment Act, 1935, certain alterations have been made in the form in which the Accounts are presented.

1. TRADING AND PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT AND EARNED SURPLUS ACCOUNT.

The balance at the credit of Profit and Loss Account for the year amounts to	£625,880
Add balance brought forward from 1934	60,348

Dividend on 7 per Cent. Cumulative First Preference Shares for the year 1935	152,541 which it is recommended should be applied as follows:—

Dividend of 23.88 Canadian cents per Share on Participating Preference Shares for the year	40,600
Dividend of 9 pence per Share on Ordinary Shares	454,810
Carry forward to next year	38,277
	£533,687

In May, 1936, the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, Ltd., made arrangements disposing of the law suit relating to its Amatlan property, and thus any question as to the liability of the Company under the mutual guarantees existing between the two companies so far as it related to the suit was determined. Dividends on the 7 per Cent. Cumulative First Preference Shares of the Company for 2½ years to 30th April, 1936, were paid on 7th May, 1936.

2. BALANCE SHEET.

SHARE CAPITAL.—The Share Capital of the Company has been reduced during the year by the purchase and cancellation in the terms of their Issue of 92,970 7 per Cent. Cumulative First Preference Shares, having a redemption value of £58,571.

GENERAL RESERVE.—This reserve has been increased by £200,000 as referred to below.

INVESTMENTS IN SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES.—No alteration in the debenture or shareholdings has occurred during 1935. Further capital outlays of approximately £115,000 have been incurred on the Aruba Refinery, mainly in connection with the installation of a reforming plant. The refinery has now become a permanent installation. The Directors have made a revaluation of this asset, and the amount of £200,000 by which it has been written up has been credited to General Reserve Account. In the opinion of the Directors the valuation is conservative.

INVESTMENTS IN ALLIED COMPANIES AND OTHER INVESTMENTS.—During the year 50 per cent. of the share capital of Shell-Mex Oil Company of Cuba, Ltd., was taken over from Eagle Oil and Shipping Company, Ltd. A return of U.S. $3 per share was received from the Flintkote Company. In 1936 the investment in the latter company was sold at a substantial profit. A considerable amount of investments in South American Government Securities was realised during 1935 at over cost.

STOCKS OF OIL.—These stocks are valued by the management at a figure under the current f.o.b. gulf prices and under cost.

FLOATING ASSETS AND LIABILITIES.—Where these exist in currencies other than sterling conversion into sterling has been made at the respective rates ruling at 31st December, 1935.

3. PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT.

Dividends and interest receivable include £6,426 and £61,803, representing dividends relating to the years 1933 and 1934, respectively, which are additional to dividends from the same shareholdings relating to the year 1935. All other dividends and interest relate to the year 1935. Exploration work in various countries in partnership with other companies continued during the year.

4. ACTIVITIES OF THE COMPANY AND ITS SUBSIDIARY AND ALLIED COMPANIES.

The Company is essentially a trading company carrying on its business mainly through subsidiary companies. While the Company purchases some crude oil from other sources, its main business is the purchase, under long term contract from the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, Ltd., of all the refined products which that company has available for export. Its business is thus almost entirely a marketing business, and its profits are consequently dependent solely upon the margin existing from time to time between the selling price of products to consumers and the ruling wholesale prices.

The tonnage of products sold during the year shows an appreciable increase over last year, and the prices obtained, therefore, show a slight improvement. Exchange restrictions continued in South American countries during 1935. It was, however, possible to remit more freely than in 1934, but the sterling value of the various currencies showed a further slightly downward tendency. The purchases of oil products by Eagle Oil and Shipping Company, Ltd., from Mexico, Venezuela and elsewhere for the last three years have been as follows:—

Year 1933	17,576,576 barrels
Year 1934	19,994,614 "
Year 1935	20,893,558 "

These purchases cover a complete range of petroleum products, including gasoline, kerosine, gasoil, lubricating oils, greases, fuel, and bituminous products.

In pursuance of its policy of scrapping its less economical vessels and replacing them with modern Diesel tankers, Eagle Oil and Shipping Company, Ltd., has scrapped four tankers with a total dead-weight capacity of 34,411 tons since the date of last report, and ordered a further five Diesel tankers, each of approximately 12,000 tons dead-weight capacity, from British Shipbuilders. That Company's cargo vessel has also been scrapped. The fleet now consists of 26 tankers and 2 shallow draft tankers, having a total dead-weight capacity of 321,021 tons. The six new Diesel tankers delivered in 1935 are running satisfactorily and proving to be economical in operation.

Freight rates during 1935 were at a higher level than in 1934, and the earnings of the tanker fleet in 1935, for the first time for many years, show a reasonable profit after allowing for depreciation.

5. GENERAL.

In the opinion of the Directors, the assets of the company appearing in the balance sheet are fairly valued. They are satisfied that the accounts of the various subsidiary and allied companies have also been prepared upon a conservative basis, and that their installations and equipment have been fully maintained, and ample depreciation has been, and is being written off. Further, they are satisfied that the values placed upon the stocks and debts have been assessed upon a proper basis.

7. STAFF.

The Directors are pleased to record their appreciation of the services rendered by the officials and staffs, both ashore and afloat, of the various companies controlled by this Company under the difficult conditions which have continued to rule throughout the year.

By Order of the Board,
J. E. F. DE KOK, Vice-President.

Toronto, Canada, 22nd June, 1936.

LONDON MINING MARKET

RANDFONTEIN ADVANCE

Although a more subdued tone characterised the Mining market yesterday there was still a considerable amount of business in progress, and the check to the advance, which had been somewhat rapid on the first two days of the week, was generally welcomed. This does not mean that there was any pronounced slackening of interest; indeed, the public demand again showed signs of further expansion, but professional profit-taking was not unnaturally in progress, and it was significant that most of the good-class shares on offer were readily absorbed.

However, Kaffirs were irregular on balance, but this department still occupied pride of place, and there was again a big turnover in many of the newer concerns. West Wits, which have been so prominent of late, were not unnaturally subject to profit-taking, but such realisations were more than offset by the fresh demand, and thus the shares again finished higher on the day.

As regards the producers, Johannesburg was again a buyer of Randfontein, and as there was a persistent demand on this side, the price advanced in no uncertain manner, closing at the highest for a very long time past.

Rhodesians again gave quite a good account of themselves, though there was nowhere any great increase in the volume of trading.

Diamonds were mostly left to themselves, but De Beers issues and Consolidated African Selection were fractionally harder.

Following on the previous day's activity West Africans made a good start, but the demand was not quite so persistent, and quotations here and there gave way.

There were no outstanding features in the Australian department, and the few irregular changes recorded were without significance.

With a further improvement in the price of the metal, and hopes of a continuance of restriction—to be decided at to-day's meeting—Tin shares again advanced.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET

Business in the American market in Shorter's Court last evening was not particularly animated, but the tone was firm and a number of the leading issues improved. Steels put on ⅝ to 63½, Nickels gained ½ to 50¼, and Tractions were ¼ to the good at 13¼. Chryslers were the feature with a rise of about 4 points to 107½, while General Motors improved to 66⅛. "Canadas" hardened to 12¾ and New York Centrals finished buyers at 36¾. Anacondas were bid for at 6⅞, as were International Telephone at 15, but Radios were dull and eased slightly to 11⅝. Elsewhere there was very little going on. In the Oil section Mexican Eagles, after easing to 25s. 7½d., recovered to 25s. 9d., while Canadian finished a shade lower at 17s. 4½d. Shell Unions were quoted at 16⅞.

Financial News & Notes

DUBLIN SUBDUED

BANK OF IRELAND LOWER

GUINNESS EASIER

Quiet markets were again the rule on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, but, despite the prevailing lack of interest, prices maintained a steady to firm appearance.

The Free State Funds were unchanged, apart from Conversion Loan, which rose to 109½. War Loan repeated 106, and Dublin 4 p.c. advanced to 104½, but the 3½ p.c. 1955-80 eased to 92¾.

Bank of Ireland Stock fell a point, but other banking descriptions held steady.

Guinness eased slightly to 157s.

Home Rails were quietly featureless, but Dublin Tram Ord. hardened to 12s. 9d.

Irish Shell Pref. fell 1s. 6d., and Irish-American Oil Pref. were sellers at 24s. on fears regarding the possible effect of the new refinery company.

May Roberts (Ireland) Ord. gained 1s., and Goodbody Ord. moved up to 10s. 9d.

Leading British Industrials were very idle. Imperial Chemicals held 39s., and Imperial Tobaccos eased to 159s., but good support put Vickers Ord. 1s. 1½d. higher. Textiles inclined to harden.

LONDON CHEERFUL

GILT-EDGED STEADIER

A cheerful feeling characterised the London Stock markets yesterday, and business continued on fairly active lines, with Mining shares still in the limelight. The demand for Kaffirs was maintained at the outset, with West Wits. attracting further considerable attention, but after the recent sharp advances in quotations speculators were disposed to snatch profits, and in consequence many issues reacted. The setback was only temporary, however, as in later dealings buying was resumed and the market developed renewed strength. Trading in other directions showed no marked expansion, but the trend of quotations was to higher levels, sentiment being assisted by the favourable industrial outlook and a batch of particularly pleasing British rail traffics.

BRITISH FUNDS.

Following upon the overnight decline, a modest volume of support was accorded gilt-edged securities, and, as few sellers were in evidence, the tone of the market became firmer. The rally in quotations was small, however, and the only significant advance was in Old Consols, which closed at 85½.

RAILS.

British Rails, after a quiet start, took a turn for the better following publication of the traffics for last week, which showed an aggregate increase of £110,000 over the corresponding week last year. Buyers appeared for L.M.S. Ord., Southerns and other junior issues, and the market closed on a firm note. Although persistent demand for Cordoba Centrals was again the principal feature of Foreign Rails, Antofagasta Ord. and certain Argentines commanded attention and made headway. Colonials kept steady, but American Rails lacked fresh support and fell back under the lead of Union Pacific.

INDUSTRIALS.

Operators in Industrials showed discrimination and interest was concentrated largely on issues affected by individual factors. The market was almost entirely free of sellers, however, and the majority of price-changes, therefore, favoured holders. Aviation shares received fresh support, with Bristols, Hawkers and Imperial Airways especially active, and there was little falling off in the demand for certain Building and Electrical Equipment issues. Engineering descriptions also showed to advantage, and several features were noticeable in the Brewery, Tobacco and Miscellaneous departments.

MINES.

Among Mines, activity in Kaffirs spread to all the leading counters, but profit-taking caused irregular movements around mid-day. During the closing stages, West Wits. encountered fresh buying and led an almost general rally in prices, and eventually the market finished firm. West Africans, although quieter, presented a firm appearance, and a feature among Australians was a spurt in Broken Hill North on talk of a share-splitting scheme. Rhodesian and Indian Gold shares were harder in places, and Base Metals kept steady.

THE MONEY MARKET

DEMAND FOR LOANS

In preparation for the usual squeeze for money at the end of the half-year, a small amount was borrowed from the Bank of England yesterday at 2½ p.c. A fair business was done in the market in loans into July at 1¾ to 2 p.c., but day-to-day money was plentiful at ½ p.c. Discounts were weak in tone, fine three months' Bank bills being called ⅝ to 11/16 p.c., with a tendency towards the lower figure.

The Bank of England announced the purchase of a further £1,588,476 in bar gold.

The price of gold yesterday fell 1½d. to 138s. 7½d. per fine ounce. About £559,000 worth was disposed of. The premium over the dollar widened to 2½d., while that over the franc narrowed to 5½d.

The price of silver continued its rally, both spot and forward rising 1/16d. to 19 11/16d. per ounce on Indian buying.

The European gold currencies continued to lose ground in a comparatively quiet foreign exchange market yesterday. Some bear covering, which found its chief expression in sales of dollars, possibly assisted by a little official support, gave a steady undertone to the franc, and the rest of the gold bloc in the morning, but a small selling wave swept the market shortly before the close and final rates for the day were less favourable to the group. Speculators were adopting a somewhat cautious attitude in view of the apparent determination of the French and other Continental Governments to restore confidence in their currencies. The reduction in the Dutch bank rate announced yesterday was regarded as an indication of the more hopeful view of the situation taken by the Dutch authorities, following the cut made in the French bank rate on the previous day.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

ANOTHER SATISFACTORY SESSION

Business in the Industrial market yesterday still remained of modest dimensions, with most of the interest centred around Aircraft and Engineering issues. After some irregularity, the trans-Atlantic counters finished with a firm appearance in the late dealings on supporting orders from Wall street. Nickels and Steels were the most active spots, but they showed little change on balance. Cable and Wireless Stocks presented a firm front, noticeably the junior issues.

Among Aviation and kindred descriptions, Bristol once more provided the main feature, further strong buying resulting from the statements at the meeting, and the announcement that new shares are to be offered at 25s. on a share for share basis, the price further advanced 1/16. Strength continued to be displayed by Hawkers.

An irregular tendency prevailed in the Motor group.

BRIGHT FEATURES.

Iron and Coal descriptions provided several bright features, the market being helped by favourable trade reports. There was a keen demand for Babcock and Wilcox, which further advanced 1s. Frith Brown continued in request and put on another ⅛.

Firmness was maintained by Electrical Equipments, with business on a firm scale. Crompton Parkinsons were again in request.

There was some irregularity among Breweries, Guinness, South African Ord. and Simonds being easier.

In the Tobacco section Gallahers came in for fresh support, mainly from the provinces, and finished ⅛ up. "Imps" and Carreras held around the overnight levels.

Although there was little fresh business passing among Textiles prices generally were well maintained.

In the Shipping section a revival of interest was seen in E.D. Realisation, which strengthened.

The Miscellaneous section again presented a firm appearance and several bright features again developed.

OIL INTEREST MAINLY IN EAGLES

Following the activity which developed on Tuesday in the Eagle issues as a result of the encouraging statement by Lord Bearsted at the Shell meeting regarding the improved relations between the Mexican Government and the Mexican Eagle Company and the brighter outlook for the undertaking, there was again a big business in the shares yesterday. A little profit-taking was encountered in Mexicans at the start, but shares offered were well absorbed, and within a short time the upward movement was resumed. There was a large turnover, both firm and option buying being in progress. Later in the day, however, the shares were subjected to heavy profit-taking locally, while there were also realisations on Continental account, as a result of which the prices of both Mexicans and Canadians reacted and showed little change on balance.

RUBBERS SUPPORTED

A further expansion was witnessed yesterday in the demand for Rubber shares, and the market, stimulated by more encouraging commodity conditions and the increase in the Dutch native rubber export duty, developed renewed firmness. In a firm commodity section liberal buying of near positions was noticeable, and spot rubber at 7½d. per lb. was unchanged.

NEW ATHLONE FACTORY

WILL EMPLOY 1,500 PERSONS

The directors of the new cotton factory being built at Athlone visited the site yesterday and expressed satisfaction with the progress of the work. They included M. Leon Lagache, Chairman of Usines Textile Reunies de Belgique, S.A., who will be managing director of the new company.

General Textiles, Limited, which is the name of the company, has a capital of £500,000. It will manufacture all classes of cotton piece goods. At the outset it will import the yarn, but later machinery will be installed which will enable the entire process to be conducted in the Free State.

The loom shed, which is the most advanced part of the building, is 370 feet by 133 feet. Bleaching, dyeing and finishing sheds are also under construction, while the foundations have been laid for a very extensive repair shop.

The machinery will be operated by a steam turbine driving coupled generators of 1,400 h.p. At the start a certain amount of the Shannon current will be utilised.

Mr. W. J. Mulcahy, one of the directors, stated in an interview that ultimately from 1,500 to 2,000 hands would be employed in the factory. The technical control would be in the hands of Belgians, but it was hoped that after a few years Irish nationals would be able to run the industry without outside help.

THE LATE MR. W. B. TYRIE

The death of Mr. W. B. Tyrie, at the age of 82, removes one of Cork's oldest residents. A native of Blairgowrie, Scotland, he spent the greater part of his life in Cork, where he carried on the furrier business established by his father. He was a popular member of the Literary and Scientific Society.

Speaking at the funeral, the Rev. Andrew Gibson paid a tribute to the many fine qualities of Mr. Tyrie, and referred to his record of service to the Presbyterian Church for forty-seven years.

COMPANY MEETING.

SCRIBBANS & CO.

EXPANSION OF BUSINESS

The ninth annual general meeting of Scribbans and Company Ltd., was held yesterday at the Hotel Victoria, London, W.C.

Mr. Philip E. Hill (the Chairman) said that, in common with other concerns engaged in their industry, they found themselves in the position of having increased business and less profits. The reduction in their case amounted to some £25,000 less than the comparable figure for the previous year. It was naturally disappointing at a time when industry in this country was so prosperous to show a fall in profits, but the true importance of that was, in his opinion, quite insignificant when compared with the actual expansion of the company's business during the period under review.

The increased prices of raw materials paid by the company and its subsidiary were over £63,000 in excess of those of the previous year. Under normal conditions they should have been able to show an increase in net profits of something in excess of £38,000. During the period under review the company had opened many thousands of new accounts and its output for the present year showed a steady increase. As far as actual trade was concerned, he was anticipating that 1936 would be an excellent year for sales, but it was quite impossible to make any accurate forecast with regard to the price of raw materials. He personally thought they would see a further rise. They did know they were maintaining the quality of their products. They were manufacturing economically and pursuing an energetic sales policy.

He felt quite confident that when they met next year he would be able to report a still further expansion of business. He personally saw no cause for concern at the setback they had experienced, but genuine grounds for satisfaction on the expansion results they had so far achieved and the further progress so strongly indicated.

Referring to the retirement of Mr. Hathaway, the Chairman said that Mr. Hathaway had acted as managing director from the inception of the company until the end of last year. He had had an arduous and difficult task, which he had carried out with the greatest skill, and he was glad to say Mr. Hathaway had agreed to sacrifice some of his well-earned retirement by acting in an advisory capacity on the board, where his great experience in the business would be most welcome.

The report was unanimously adopted and the proceedings terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman, directors and staff.

STOCKS IMPROVE AFTER EARLY HEAVINESS

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

The initial sentiment on the Stock Exchange to-day was slightly reactionary, but the undertrend became better as the session progressed, and the market closed firm. Sales were higher at 1,240,000 shares. Advances of fractions to $1 were shown by the Steel, Mining, and Copper divisions, while gains touching $3 were recorded individually elsewhere. Chrysler Motors were again particularly buoyant.

Sterling exchanges opened 1/16c. up at 5.02 1/16, and improved during the morning to 5.02⅜. The rate further advanced to 5.02½ in the afternoon, and finally closed ⅛c. higher—compared with the previous close—at 5.02 11/16. Silver was unchanged at 44⅞c.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

"Twin Eagles" Reports

The reports of the Mexican Eagle Oil Company and the Canadian Eagle Oil Company are printed in this issue. The arrears of dividend on the 7 per cent. First Preference shares were paid, and dividends were also paid on the 8 per cent. Participating Preference shares and the Ordinary shares of both companies. Notwithstanding the improved position, the report deprecates undue optimism as to the future owing to the over-production of crude oil and the accumulation of stocks.

Reduction of Dutch Bank Rate

The reduction of the discount rate of the Netherlands Bank from 4½ to 4 per cent., announced yesterday, is due to the fact that there has been no further decrease in the Bank's stocks of gold during the past week. The reduction in the Bank rate will have a psychological value, and will certainly strengthen confidence in the Dutch money market.

F. W. Woolworth Directorate Changes

Mr. W. L. Stephenson, the managing director of F. W. Woolworth and Co., Ltd., has resigned from that position, but will remain chairman of the company, a position he has held since he became managing director fifteen years ago. Two joint managing directors are to be appointed to take over the work of Mr. Stephenson, who will then be free to concentrate on questions of policy and the general direction of the business.

"Shell" Transport Dividend Policy

Lord Bearsted referred to the Board's interim dividend policy at the meeting of the "Shell" Transport and Trading Company. He said that the question would again receive the Board's serious consideration, but in the distressing state of world affairs he was in no position to make a definite statement. The declaration or non-declaration must not be taken as any indication of the state of the group's profits. The directors had been, and would be, guided solely by the policy of economic security. No interim payment has been made since 10 per cent. in 1930, which was followed by a final of 7½ per cent. The dividend for 1935 was 17½ per cent., against 12½ per cent. for 1934.

Whitehead Iron

At the annual meeting of the Whitehead Iron and Steel Co., Ltd., Mr. L. D. Whitehead, the chairman and managing director, explained the large increase in the transfers to reserve during the past two years. He pointed out that prior to 1934-35 the company's practice was to allocate a yearly sum of £10,000, but the directors decided, with the expansion in dividends, to raise this allocation to £60,000 in 1934-35, and to £70,161 in 1935-36. Mr. Whitehead said the directors had in mind a two-fold purpose. The first was to protect the company's supplies of raw materials, and the second to build up the company's capital gradually by way of further capital bonus issues.

Cable and Wireless

The courts of Cable and Wireless (Holding), Ltd., and Cable and Wireless, Ltd., have issued the following statement:—"The initial stages of the new organisation set up in 1929 are now past, and the experience during those years points to the fact that the next stage will be that the situation should be re-examined. In these circumstances, and as the Empire Governments have now recognised that the time has come for this re-examination, Mr. Denison-Pender feels that he has achieved what he has been trying to do for the past four years since he has been the Government approved chairman of the Communications Company. Mr. Denison-Pender has accordingly intimated to His Majesty's Government that he would be glad to be relieved of the position of Government approved chairman of Cable and Wireless, Ltd. He will continue to hold the position of governor and managing director of the controlling company, Cable and Wireless (Holding), Ltd. At his suggestion, and with the approval of His Majesty's Government, the court of directors have unanimously elected Sir Edward Wilshaw to be chairman and managing director of Cable and Wireless, Ltd. In order to facilitate the new arrangements, Sir Norman Leslie has tendered his resignation, which the court has accepted with great regret."

Doremus and Co., Ltd.

Doremus and Company, Ltd., the financial publicity organisation, announces that its offices have been moved to larger premises at No. 3 Lombard street, E.C.3. As in the past, the international service carried on for banks, financial houses and large industrial undertakings will be under the personal direction of Mr. Walker Smyllie, managing director of the company. The new telephone number is Mansion House 6611 (five lines).

CLAIMS OF R.I.A.M.

THE FALLING-OFF IN INCOME

Mr. Dermod O'Brien, P.R.H.A., presided at the annual meeting of the Royal Irish Academy of Music, at Westland Row, Dublin, yesterday.

In moving the adoption of the annual report for the year 1935, Mr. O'Brien said that the state of the Academy was to some extent reflected in the auditor's report. Unfortunately, the Academy of Music, like most other institutions, depended upon the financial side. Their subscriptions were going down, whilst in the conversion of their stocks their income was diminished by £120. That was a very big thing in an institution which had a very small—almost negligible—fund. They depended almost entirely upon the fees received from the Local Centre Examinations. It seemed to him that members of the Academy would have to consider very seriously what they were going to do to keep the Academy going.

It was almost impossible to go to any place of entertainment without having to listen to "canned" music. The people did not appear to care anything for music. As in everything else, salesmanship seemed to be more important than quality. They had less quality in music and more quantity. It was up to the members of the Academy to do something to overcome this neglect of the highest forms of music.

Dr. J. F. Larchet seconded the motion, and it was passed.

Those present included:—Governors Mrs. W. J. M. Starkie, Mrs. W. O'Hara, Mrs. Frank McDonnell, Mrs. Sidford Fannin, Mr. J. J Holloway, F.R.I.A.I., and Mr. F. P. Griffith, B.A.I. Also Mrs. May, Miss Annie Irwin, and Miss Edith Alton.

IMPORTANCE OF TRAINING

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY SCHOOL METHOD

The Rev. J. Leonard, S.M., Provincial, Drogheda, presided last night at the annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Catholic University School, Leeson street, Dublin.

He said that in the Catholic University School the teachers conducted the studies on a definite line.

"It is the training of the mind that counts; it is not the amount of knowledge that is instilled into them. In almost every sphere of life—professional, industrial, and commercial—we see C.U.S. boys occupying the best positions."

The teachers, he said, paid much attention to the formation of character of the boy, and sought to secure that each boy throughout his life lived as a good Christian.

Professor P. O'Donovan, University College, Dublin, paid a tribute to the students from the school who had passed through the different faculties in the University. The explanation of the success of the C.U.S. men was that at the school they had been taught how to work.

The Rev. J. Dawson, S.M., Headmaster, urged the boys on leaving the school to join the Past Pupils' Union and to continue their association with the St. Vincent de Paul organisation.

The senior special awards were:—

Religious Knowledge—Gold medal, Pieter van Miert; silver medal, Paul Warren, W. Ellis and G. Worn.

Debating—Gold medal, B. O'Byrne.

Irish—Gold medal, A. McElhinney.

Mathematics—Gold medal, P. van Miert.

Gold medal for boy who took the greatest interest in his studies—B. O'Byrne.

Best all-round sportsman—A. McElhinney.

ST. KIERAN'S COLLEGE

MANY BISHOPS AT CENTENARY GATHERING

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

KILKENNY, Wednesday.

Under the patronage of the Most Rev. Dr. Collier, Bishop of Ossory, a past-president of the college, the first centenary of St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny, was celebrated to-day.

After Mass and the annual meeting of the Past Pupils' Union there was a luncheon, at which the following bishops were present, in addition to Dr. Collier:—Dr. Magee, Bishop of Down and Connor; Dr. McKenna, Bishop of Clogher; Dr. Casey, Bishop of Ross; Dr. Fitzgerald, Bishop of Gibraltar, and Dr. Codd, Bishop of Ferns.

The toast of "The Pope" having been duly honoured, Dr. Collier proposed the toast of "The Bishops," and Dr. McKenna and Dr. Fitzgerald replied.

The toast of "The College" was proposed by the Right Rev. Monsignor Tynan, St. Mary's, Burnley, and was responded to by the Very Rev. J. Canon Staunton, President of the College. Canon Staunton also proposed the toast of "The Guests," and Dr. Dalton, Maynooth, replied.

In the afternoon a garden party was held in the grounds of the college. In his address Dr. Collier said that in one year alone 320 priests had left Ireland to work in foreign countries. That was a sign that the country must be right. He paid a fine tribute to the visiting bishops, three of whom, he said, had been professors in St. Kieran's College.

The President of the College (Canon Staunton) congratulated Dr. Collier on the success of the celebrations, and extended to their distinguished visitors and past pupils a very hearty welcome.

A selection of music was rendered during the garden party by the No. 1 Army Band, under the conductorship of Lieutenant M. A. Bowles. The catering was by Mrs. B. Lawlor and Sons, Naas.

A ROSCOMMON NIGHT RAID

FOUR MEN GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

A SENTENCE OF TWO YEARS IN JAIL

Casts of tracks left by a motor car on roads in County Roscommon were produced at the Military Tribunal yesterday, at the resumed trial of John Mitchell, The Square, Roscommon; J. J. Morris, Henry street, Roscommon; Denis Daley, Castle street, Roscommon, and John Mellin, 17 New Cottages, Roscommon.

The men were charged with membership of an unlawful association and promoting the commission of offences, namely, conspiring to compel by threats Patrick Geraghty, Whitehall, Roscommon, to cease to employ John Bonner, then in his employment. Mitchell was also charged with illegal possession of firearms.

The charges were a sequel to an armed raid on the house of Patrick Geraghty on the night of May 15th, 1936, with the object of preventing a marriage to which Bonner was to have been one of the parties.

Peter Casey, Athlone road, Roscommon, motor dealer, stated that Mitchell, who was employed by him, was on sick leave during periods in April and May. He knew Mitchell was being treated for heart trouble at the time. Hundreds of pounds were in his custody, and it was as safe as if it was in the Bank of Ireland.

Detective-Sergeant Feighan stated that he took casts of tyre marks at Curraun Cross-roads, near Geraghty's house, and he also took casts of the marks made by the rear wheels of the car owned by John Hunt, Roscommon, in the test at the barracks. The marks, in his opinion, were similar, with an India Red Lion tyre on the right rear wheel and an Inglebert tyre on the left rear wheel.

FRONT OR BACK WHEELS

To Mitchell the witness said that he could not state definitely whether the marks on the road were made by front or rear wheels, but the two casts were similar. There were several Ford cars in Roscommon; but he thought that combination was unusual.

Inspector E. O'Sullivan stated he interrogated Daley, Mellin and Morris, and they all denied having had anything to do with the raid.

Speaking from the dock, Mitchell said that there was no evidence to connect them with the charges. He had on various occasions used Hunt's car for journeys, but on no occasion were the other accused men with him.

The other prisoners said that they had no remarks to make.

Mitchell had been found guilty on Tuesday of membership of an unlawful association, and was put back for sentence.

The Court found all the prisoners guilty of the charges, and took into consideration the previous charges against Mitchell.

Mitchell was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, and Daley, Mellin and Morris to one year each, to date from the time of arrest.

"Came Ashore to See a Girl."—In Dublin District Court yesterday, Patrick Stewart (25), Mill street, Strabane, was remanded until Saturday next, charged with attempted suicide. Michael Lucie, Sussex street, Dun Laoghaire, said that about three minutes before the mail boat left Carlisle Pier he saw the accused man come ashore. When the gangways had been hauled up, and the boat was moving off, Stewart attempted to jump on board. The witness prevented him from doing so, but he took off his coat, went further along the pier, and jumped into the water. When he came to the surface he swam towards the quayside. The accused man said that he had some drink taken, and his falling into the water was a mistake. He had come ashore to see a girl.

DEATH IN RESCUE ATTEMPT

CLONMEL MAN'S FATE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Wednesday.

In an endeavour to rescue his nephew, who had got into difficulties at Tramore Bay last evening, Mr. Michael Brett, merchant, Clonmel, lost his life.

After succeeding in pushing his nephew to safety, Mr. Brett collapsed in the water and expired.

At an inquest held subsequently a verdict of death from cardiac failure was returned, in accordance with the evidence of Dr. Nicholas Purcell, who stated that he had tried artificial respiration without effect. He was of opinion that death was due to heart failure, as he did not believe there was sufficient water at the point of the accident to drown him. He was dead when taken out of the water.

BODENSTOWN BAN PROTEST

LONGFORD MOTION "NOT POLITICAL"

At Longford County Council yesterday Mr. M. Brady (Independent Republican) proposed a resolution protesting against "the Coercion Act being enforced" and solitary confinement in Irish prisons; demanding the immediate release of all political prisoners, and protesting against the banning of the commemoration celebrations in Bodenstown.

The Chairman (Mr. J. Belton, F.F.), having looked up the standing orders in regard to notices of motion, said he had refused a resolution last year condemning a very regrettable shooting in the county on the ground that it was political, and he regretted he could not see his way to accept this resolution.

Mr. Brady said he would give notice of motion for the next meeting, stating that the resolution was not political, but national.
